Former mayor dies

R. E. "Mickey" Robertson, 2807 Benton St., a Granite City Fourth Ward alderman and a former mayor for three terms, died at the Colonades Nursing Home at 3:05 p.m. Wednesday.

He was 64. Death followed an illness that had become progressively more serious since last May. He became a patient at the nursing home three weeks ago, but had been hospitalized on several occasions during the past nine months.

Mr. Robertson had been active in the development of Granite City, both as a city official and a citizen, since 1918 when he first entered politics and was elected as alderman.

He was born in Rinard, Ill., in 1892 and came to Granite City with his family in 1896. He attended schools here. The Illinois Senate honored Mr. Robertson last year when it enacted a resolution commending him.

Civil War era recalled

(Ninth of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)
Historians recall that Illinois played a key role in the Civil War, providing 149 regiments of infantry, 17 regiments of cavalry and 33 artillery batteries.

Immediately after the fall of Fort Sumter, the beginning of the Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers from the militia of the several states for three months service—not that he thought the war would be over in three months, but because that limitation was placed in the law governing the employment of militia.

Before this date, Governor Richard Yates had called attention to the collapse of the militia system in Illinois. It was said only 800 uniformed men could be turned out from the militia—this in spite of the popularity of such drill teams as Elmer E. Ellsworth's Chicago Zouaves, the Chicago Jaegers, Turner Union Cadets, Lincoln Rifles, and the like. Accordingly, the task of organizing volunteers was turned over to anyone who would volunteer to do it.

The result was that the state had a curious collection of private armies, regularized by being accepted at first by the state and then by the federal government for service.

There was no trouble in raising six regiments to answer Lincoln's call—numbered 7th to 12th Illinois because there had been six Illinois regiments in the Mexican War.

These regiments served three months and then were reorganized to serve three years.

So great was the response of volunteers that, by June 1861, Illinois had 19 regiments in service. During the war, Illinois raised aldermen that the M.W. Architects and Engineers and the G.L. Tarlton Contracting Co., engineers and contractors in the building of the new secondary sewage treatment plant, have asked to release part of the plant structure to the city as completed.

Schuler said that he will sign for the city's acceptance, but that he would not do so until insurance coverage is provided.

Plan review of city insurance coverage

A study of insurance contracts on all city-owned properties and immediate acquisition of insurance coverage on a portion of the new secondary sewage treatment plant was ordered by the Granite City Council Monday night.

On a suggestion by Alderman Ronald Coleman, chairman of the Finance Committee, council members agreed to advertise for an insurance broker who would be retained to study all present city insurance pacts and to determine the need for additional coverage where necessary to give full protection.

The proposal developed after Mayor Paul Schuler told the Ambulance cutback may become severe

Mercer Ambulance Service, Inc. will cut its emergency ambulance force by two-thirds starting Sunday, taking two ambulances off the streets.

Some feel the move could create a shortage of ambulances here. However, Frank Mercer, president, says the two ambulances he is taking out of service are not required and have not been used in four months.

The firm sent a letter this week to major industries informing them of the reduction and noting, "Although a limited emergency capability will still exist, it may be well for you to explore other emergency means of transportation in case our service is not available when you might need it."

The letter relates that "a drastic increase in the cost of our malpractice insurance as well as other vehicle coverage necessitates this action." Malpractice insurance cost has risen from $1,000 to $6,000 per year in recent years, Mercer explained.

He told the Press-Record his plans are tentative, but he may have only one emergency ambulance and one non-emergency convalescent transportation vehicle in service after Saturday.

He has assured Granite City Chief of Police Ron Veizer that the firm will continue to accept accident and emergency calls from the police and will respond "if there is an ambulance available."

He adds that his non-emergency vehicle will not be insured to make emergency runs, if the emergency ambulance is busy. Mercer Ambulance will ask emergency callers to contact another service.

A fine line divides the two, but convalescent service is primarily for those who become ill at home and need to go to the hospital and emergency service is mostly for accidental injuries, he explained.

Thomas Ambulance Service operates two ambulances on a 24-hours-a-day basis. It keeps one in the downtown Granite City area and one at the Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2205 Ponton Road, every night.

One emergency ambulance also is operated by Michael's Ambulance Service at 213 Broadway, Venice. Mercer is based at 1416 Niedringhaus Ave. A spokesman for Thomas said that company would like to acquire another ambulance immediately to help fill the gap left by Mercer's reduction but that adequate financing is not available.

"We are making every attempt to come up with some kind of help from the cities, the state or anywhere else to purchase another ambulance and hire the necessary staff. But it does not look like anything is immediately available," the Thomas spokesman said.

The reference to city, county or state funds supports the comments voiced last year by Mercer and other ambulance operators when it was predicted that governmental participation would be needed to maintain uniform and adequate ambulance service.

The ambulance services of the Mercer, Lahey, Sedack, Davis and Pieper funeral homes said in June that they hoped to discontinue emergency ambulance service to this area as soon as public officials could help set up an alternate source. October was mentioned as a target date, but not as a definite termination date.

Bob Thomas Jr., operator of the Thomas service that was just being established at that time, said it would provide emergency ambulances even if all the other funeral homes decided they could not do so.

In addition to the emergency ambulances still scheduled to be active—two by Thomas, one by Mercer and one by Michael's—all the funeral homes still provide convalescent transfer services of varying scope.

Frank Mercer told the Press-Record yesterday that his reduction in the number of emergency ambulances offered through his service still will leave the Quad-City area with four emergency ambulances—the same number as when Mercer was operating the major emergency ambulance

Charges against Apex Oil firm

Apex Oil Co., St. Louis, whose

Granite City harbor facilities allegedly were responsible for a chemical leak into a ditch at the Tri-City Regional Port, has been charged with reckless conduct in connection with that leak.

The filing of the charges by Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron marks the first time criminal charges have been filed in a pollution case in Illinois.

An Apex spokesman expressed surprise at the announced charges, saying, "It is unfortunate Apex has been slapped with something like this when it is not even our fault."

He explained a leak occurred in an underground line, allowing a caustic solution to leak into the ditch. Several persons, including five local boys, suffered chemical burns in the ditch, leading to an investigation by county, state and federal pollution control officials.

The Apex spokesman said, "The leak occurred five feet underground and we had no way of detecting it. You can't see a leak five feet underground." He added there are gauges to measure the amount of material in the 300,000 gallon storage tank and the flow into and out of the tank, but there is no way to measure the loss of material before it gets to the tank.

The leak was discovered in an underground line which goes from barge loading and unloading facilities on the Chain of Rocks Canal, then under the levee and underground into the storage tank containing the caustic soda. It is the smallest of the tanks at Apex's Granite City facility.

The line was installed in the early 1960s, before Apex was a tenant at the Tri-City Regional Port, he explained.

In an informational document filed in Madison County Circuit Court, Byron charges the company with reckless conduct under the Illinois Criminal Code and two criminal counts of water pollution under the Illinois Environmental Protection Act.

A civil suit also was filed by Byron, seeking an injunction barring further discharges of the chemical into the ditch, ordering the company to remove deposits of the solution in the mud of the ditch and calling for fines which could total $55,000, if all of the allegations are proven.

Assistant street official appointed

James Stack Jr., 3300 Wilshire Drive, was appointed by Mayor Paul Schuler Monday night as assistant superintendent of streets, a newly-created post established by the Granite City council a month ago.

Schuler announced the appointment after Alderman Clyde Boyd, chairman of the Street and Alley Committee, reported the committee had screened applicants for the job and had made a recommendation to the mayor.

The new job carries an annual salary of $15,000. The appointment becomes effective Feb. 2.

The council established the new post at the request of City Street Superintendent Lionel Portell who said that increased supervisory duties resulting from a growing program of sewer and street department work made assistance essential.

Stack 28, is a lifelong resident of Granite City, the son of Mr. (Continued on Page 12)

REGINALD MENNERICK

Reginald Mennerick, 2325 Clark Ave., has been appointed to the Springfield Diocesan Catholic Committee on Scouting, it was announced today by Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas, Springfield.

He also has been appointed by the bishop as chairman of the Catholic Committee on Scouting for the Cahokia Mound Scout Council which covers the southern half of Madison County and all of Bond County.

Mennerick, his wife, Mary, and three children, Regina, Mike and Rita, are residents of St. Elizabeth parish in Granite City.

Father Henry Schmidt, pastor of St. Elizabeth Church in Marine, and St. Gertrude in Grant Park, has been appointed by Bishop McNicholas to the office of Chaplain for the Cahokia Mound Scout Council Catholic Committee on Scouting.

Father Schmidt is a graduate of St. Mary's of the Lake at Mundelein, Ill. He was former assistant pastor of St. Peter and Paul church in Collinsville and was active in scouting there. Father Schmidt's home is in Carrollton, Ill.

Mennerick, who is produce operations supervisor for the Tri-City Grocery Co. chain, is a past president of his church's Holy Name Society and the St. Elizabeth Parish Council. He is a past principal and teacher of high school religion classes, and past chairman of the Adult Confraternity.

Currently, he has been assisting the St. Elizabeth pastor with the teaching and review for the 48 Altare Dei scouting award of the Roman Catholic Church.

Active for 17 years on scouting, Mennerick has served as a scoutmaster, and institutional representative. He presently is council Camping Committee chairman, advisor to the Order of the Arrow and member of the council executive board.

Dr. Robert Poorman, president of Lincoln Land Community College, has been appointed chairman of the Diocesan Catholic Committee on Scouting.

The purpose of the committee is to increase and provide guidance for members of the Boy Scouts of America of Roman Catholic faith within the diocese.

Bishop McNicholas was active in the scouting program in St. Louis before going to Springfield and said he is anxious to develop an active scouting program within the diocese, according to Mennerick.

Offer record coverage for crop insurance

The U.S. Agriculture Department's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation is now accepting applications for "all-risk" insurance protection on 1976 corn and soybeans, according to FCIC Sales Specialist Walter Keyser.

Responsible for crop insurance sales in Southern Illinois, he also reports that the FCIC has increased the price per bushel paid to farmers for each bushel they fall short of their guarantee.

The new top price options for 1976 are $1.70 per bushel for corn and $3.50 per bushel for soybeans.

These price option increases make it possible for farmers to receive over 20 per cent more in payments for corn damage and over 15 per cent more in soybean damage than last year. The higher bushel guarantees available in 1974 and 1975 coupled with this increase in the price options make it possible for Illinois farmers to carry a higher amount of protection against all risks than ever available by FCIC in the past, he said.

"With increasing concern on the availability of agri-credit," Keyser said, "it is anticipated that more lenders will utilize this 'all-risk' insurance protection as a means to strengthen operating loans than ever before."

mending him for his long record of public service. A copy of the resolution was presented to him during a council meeting last Sept. 22 by State Sen. Sam Vadalabene.

His official activity which centered on the solution of traffic problems, promotion of home repair and maintenance and stormwater drainage, was interrupted last May when he was hospitalized and he became unable to attend council meetings through May, June and July.

He later returned to City Council sessions periodically as his health permitted and on those instances gave reports on the progress in construction of the city's new secondary sewage treatment plant.

Mr. Robertson's long political career in which he served as mayor six years during the early — and often turbulent — days of the development of Granite City, dates back to 1918 when he first was elected alderman.

Down through the years, as alderman, then as mayor, and during the past 11 years, "Mickey" was a figurehead in major governmental issues and spearheaded movements for many of the city's development projects. In the 1930s he was responsible for many of the city's street improvements and installation of sanitary and stormwater sewers.

Elected as alderman in 1918, he served one full term until 1922 when he became a candidate for mayor and was elected. He served three consecutive terms (two years) until 1928. During his tenure as mayor, Mr. Robertson completed the installation of the sanitary sewer system in Granite City.

He was credited with following what then was an unheard of procedure in hiring all union labor and payment of union wages in all phases of the project.

After leaving the mayor's office, Mr. Robertson operated a tavern at 20th and State streets for many years. He also was employed at a saw mill and at the Granite City Press-Record.

During the past 16 years he was office manager of the Lueders, Robertson and Konzen law firm of which his son, Randall Robertson, is a member.

He returned to politics in 1965 when he was elected as an alderman of what then was Ward Seven, later changed to Ward Four under city redistricting procedures. He was re-elected to that office in 1969 and again in 1973.

He was completing his third term at the time of his death. In his most recent years on the council, Mr. Robertson championed two major developments. One of them was the construction of the new Granite City secondary sewage treatment plant which is now 99 per cent complete and in the process of being turned over to the city by the contractor and the engineers.

The other was a proposal for construction of an "access road" that would extend from West Pontoon Road behind the Crossroads Plaza and Namek Village shopping centers to a point near the downtown district, possibly 22nd or 25th streets.

While that project remained in limbo periodically over a period of nearly 10 years, Mr. Robertson frequently revived the development and sought funds for its construction.

The general plan has been revised for an access road from West Pontoon to Fehling Road and now is listed as a priority project as soon as motor fuel tax funds become available. In his honor, the City Council last year enacted a resolution naming the proposed new roadway as "Robertson Road."

Mr. Robertson has served as chairman of the council's Pollution Plant Committee and during the years of development of the secondary sewage treatment plant project, managing most of the procedure for issuance of $4 million in bonds needed to finance the city's share of the $12 million project.

During the past year he also was a member of the council's Street and Alley Committee.

He was a member of the Granite City Elks Lodge 1063. Mr. Robertson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Frances Robertson, and his son Randall Robertson, seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Funeral arrangements will be given in the obituary column.

Health agency hearing Feb. 4

Persons interested in applications for Health Systems Agency designation are being advised of a public hearing Wednesday, Feb. 4, at the Collinsville Holiday Inn, Route 157-Interstate 70.

Mark H. Lepper, M.D., of the state government's Comprehensive State Health Planning Agency said this week that hearing sessions are scheduled as follows:

1 p.m.—registration of persons desiring to testify; 2 to 4 p.m.—hearing period, with opening remarks by HSA Coordinator Ben F. Behrent; 6 p.m.—registration for testimony; and 7 to 9 p.m., hearing period with remarks by Behrent.

Dr. Lepper said the purpose of the double session is to "permit the agency to inform those present of its findings as a result of Jan. 29-30 meetings of the Statewide Health Coordinating Council, and the questions or issues that have been raised."

"Those present may respond to the findings and offer other comments they may see fit," Dr. Lepper commented today that "since the state, through the governor, is called upon to give consultation to the Health, Education and Welfare secretary in the conditional and final designation of health systems agencies, it is important that state opinions be well grounded in the opinions of those who are to receive state services and of those who will be called upon to provide them.

"In order to allow local residents to comment on the applications which were submitted by Jan. 19, the state will hold public hearings at which residents within the designated area are invited to comment.

"The state hopes to learn about the understanding of and acceptability of the processes by which the applications have been developed and under which future operations and developments can be expected to occur."

"Of course, written opinions are welcome and are solicited as well."

"The state is most interested in utilizing any and all methods to maximize, in each area, the general public's understanding that the agencies will be made up of providers and consumers from their areas and that the interests in health are to be represented by these agencies."

"The state expects that the hearings, themselves, will help clarify this understanding as well as provide information which may guide the state's capacity to give good advice to the HEW secretary."

Robert Waggoner, 45, of 2825 Warren Ave., suffered minor injuries when his car and the auto of John Hommert, 26, of 2413 Grand Ave., collided at 27th Street and Grand Avenue at 4:10 p.m. Wednesday. Waggoner was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way. He went to St. Elizabeth Hospital where x-rays were taken of his ribs and left knee and he was released.

Rerouting at bridge complex

The Illinois Department of Transportation reported this week that additional roadway segments of the interchange and approach complex to the Poplar Street Bridge will be closed and other segments opened Monday.

The sequential closing and reopening of the roadways is to allow the repair of the complex and to minimize traffic congestion. The repair work, being done under a contract with H. H. Hall Construction Co., and Illinois Ben Hur Co. for $3.4 million, was deemed necessary after it was determined through the department's bridge inspection program that some 32 expansion bearings are not functioning properly which caused damage to the steel girders and tops of supporting piers.

After Monday, the exit for 13th Street-Tudor Avenue will be re-opened for eastbound Interstate 55-70 traffic. All other entrance and exit roadways for the 13th Street-Tudor Avenue connection to the complex will be closed.

In addition, the westbound outer collector-distributor roadway will be closed. This will prevent westbound motorists from using the collector-distributor roadway as additional through traffic lanes for westbound Interstate 55-70.

The roadway ramp providing access to Illinois Route 3 southbound from westbound Interstate 55-70 will therefore become inaccessible and will remain closed, the DOT said.

All other roadways for Interstate 55-70 and access-exit connections within the complex will remain open to traffic.

The Illinois Department of Transportation will provide periodic information regarding the routing of traffic through the complex as the work progresses. Motorists were urged to be patient and on the alert when traveling through the complex area.

RECEIVED MEETING
The East Side Levee and Sanitary District Board of trustees will meet in a recessed session at 10 a.m. Friday to award a contract for purchase of electrical heating units for the North Pumping Station in East St. Louis. The meeting was recessed from Tuesday afternoon when the board received three bids on the heating units.

Boy hit by car

A 12-year-old boy was struck by a car while crossing Namooki Road at East 25th Street at 6:25 p.m. Wednesday and was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital with a broken bone in his right shoulder.

Larry Hutchinson, 2629 E. 25th St., was crossing the street when he saw the car of Kenneth Presswood, 1706 Sixth St., Madison, approaching from the north. The boy ran to try to get out of the path of the car, but was unable to avoid being struck.

He was taken by ambulance to the hospital where the broken shoulder was diagnosed. He also suffered injuries to his right side and his back.

Lint in a clothes dryer at the home of Opal Belleberry, 2513 Northridge, caught fire at 1:35 p.m. Tuesday. Firemen were there 20 minutes, preventing any loss to the dryer or home.

$50 FIRE DAMAGE
An estimated $50 damage to a shed in a yard at the home of Mattie Herlin, 124 Edison Ave., resulted from a fire at 8:55 p.m. Wednesday, according to firemen who were there 25 minutes.

New desegregation guidelines explained to Madison officials

Representatives of 21 Illinois school districts, including Madison, who are not in complete compliance with state desegregation guidelines, met in Champaign Tuesday with officials of the Equal Education Opportunities (EEO) section of the Illinois Office of Education.

"The meeting, I felt, was very productive and everyone seemed cooperative," Madison Superintendent of Schools John Palfrey said.

"The EEO people reviewed their new guidelines that they will propose to the Illinois Office of Education on Feb. 12. They wanted our opinions on the guidelines."

"It seems each district's plans on desegregation are a little different and were based on circumstances within their respective districts."

"On Feb. 26 the state board will begin to review each district, what it is doing and what it needs to do to be in compliance. After the state board reviews our plan we will get a letter pointing out what, if anything, needs to be done, and allowing us from 30 to 60 days to reply," Palfrey said.

On Monday the school officials were in Springfield meeting with the Illinois Capital Development Board to discuss how the monies are to be handled for the new junior high school to be built in the Maeris Industrial Park.

The local officials meet with architectural engineers, a fund analyst and the project manager for CDB and worked on finalizing the details on the financing the proposed school.

There are those Democrats, who wish Walker off the 1976 ballot and Howlett on, who wish Howlett would revert to his original above-the-battle stance.

As for Howlett's popularity at the polls, the record shows that in the last four years, dating back to 1950 he increased his vote total each time, whether winning or losing, and regardless of the may have been happening at the top of the ballot.

Howlett lost the first two times he sought state office, in 1950 and 1956. His worst defeat was to Republican William G. Stratton in the 1958 gubernatorial race by 390,989 votes.

That was decidedly a Republican year, across the country with voters angry at the Truman administration because of the Korean War and economic troubles.

It was also a Republican year nationally four years later when Howlett ran for auditor against Republican Elbert S. Smith. However, Howlett lost to Smith by only 24,522 votes at a time when President Dwight D. Eisenhower was carrying Illinois by more than 647,000 votes.

Truman film at Nameoki Nameoki Cinema I at the Nameoki Village Shopping Center here currently is featuring as one of its Bicentennial film events the James Whitmore portrayal of former President Truman—"Give 'Em Hell, Harry."

The Technicolor production is based on a new play written by Samuel Galt. It is not a lecture, a recitation of speeches and writing, or the reminiscences of a humorist, Galt has explained; it is "a drama, a vaudeville show, a political cabaret-act about a President who was not afraid to shoot from the hip or the lip."

It is the late Mr. Truman, Whitmore takes viewers into the inner circle of the 1945-52 "Kitchen cabinet." Scenes include reasons for use of the atomic bomb to end World War II.

Some political strategists also feel Howlett may have stumbled in regard to Walker's challenge for debate. He originally flatly rejected the proposal, but later hedged and said he might consider them if the debates are confined to one issue at a time.

Howlett's relations with the press, long regarded as about perfect, appear to have suffered to some extent in both instances. In the past he has usually reacted to any criticism with a touch of humor.

Where Howlett does specifically stand in regard to Croston is not clear. Meanwhile the Walker forces are certain to exploit the issue as another example of Howlett's link to Daley.

Several weeks ago Howlett was reported as telling an annual meeting of the Illinois Roadbuilders Association at Chicago that he favored the expressway.

In a subsequent press conference he was quoted as saying he favored an expressway, but not to the extent as originally proposed.

Where Howlett does specifically stand in regard to Croston is not clear. Meanwhile the Walker forces are certain to exploit the issue as another example of Howlett's link to Daley.

Commenting on a St. Louis County proposal to buy part ownership of Lambert Airport from the City of St. Louis, St. Louis Metropolitan Area Airport Authority Executive Director Arven H. Saunders yesterday said, "A possible ownership change will not in any way overcome the access, environmental, technical and other limitations of Lambert."

It is these limits, not the ownership structure, that make a new airport essential to the survival of the St. Louis area as a major metropolitan center.

New legislation that would authorize $15 million in bond funds for construction of an exposition hall and civic center is being prepared and will be submitted to the General Assembly following the March 16 primary election. Previous legislation for this area and four other Illinois communities was held unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court.

Two Alton area humane groups lost their case yesterday that Madison County is seeking to get more dogs and cats from cities so that it can sell them to research laboratories. They were commenting on an offer to "provide impoundment and euthanasia at no charge."

"I do not recall making such a remark. If I did, I apologize," Secretary of State Michael Howlett said in a letter Wednesday to his gubernatorial primary opponent, Gov. Daniel W. Walker.

Howlett had been quoted by a Chicago newspaper as calling the governor "an irresponsible..."

Six state officials, including Revenue Director Robert Alphin, are free on $5,000 personal bonds while appealing a contempt citation issued Tuesday by a Chicago circuit judge. He said the state ignored the April 1975 order not to arrest persons bringing lower-taxed cigarettes from Indiana for their own use.

Tom Hennessey, 50, St. Louis, formerly of Granite City, was elected this week to the American Bowling Congress hall of fame. The former Granite City High School student operated bowling lanes here and won many championships. He once rolled 846 for three games on live equipment, a state record.

Illinois' nine adult prisons are nearly full for the first time since the early 1960s, due to an increase in felony convictions. The prison population is 8,080, compared to 6,000 in 1971.

Youth arrested on 2 charges
Paul Cavar, 18, of 4302 Bruce Drive, Pontoon Beach, was arrested by Granite City police at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday and has been charged with possession of cannabis, and theft, for allegedly having a stolen stereo in his possession.

Two men who said they followed Cavar's auto from Pontoon Beach into Granite City asked a pedestrian to call police and have them stop his car.

A squad car stopped the two cars in the 3100 block of Namooki Road and arrested Cavar. A 17-year-old girl who was with him walked away during the arrest and has not been located.

Police alleged finding a small amount of cannabis in Cavar's right pants pocket. They checked his car and found a car stereo in the glove compartment which was engraved with a driver's license number.

That person was called and reported selling the stereo to a friend. Several calls were made to the person, but he refused to come forward. He had been stolen from the car of David Holmes, 359 Village Green Mobile Home Park, Pontoon Beach, Dec. 12.

Authorities say they do not know who stole the stereo and charged Cavar only with possessing it.

South High girls qualify for 1976 state volleyball tournament

The Granite City High School South girls' volleyball team, coached by Wilma Schulze, will represent this region tomorrow in the second annual Illinois High School Association volleyball state tournament, to be held at Illinois State University at Normal.

South High defeated Red Bud, defending super-sectional winner, Tuesday night by 20-7, and 20-12 scores in super-sectional action at Belleville West to advance to the state competition.

The local squad on Tuesday reversed the outcome of last year's super-sectional play. Red Bud placed third at the state last year after defeating South High at the super-sectional.

South High earned its way into the game against Red Bud for a second straight season by first defeating Dupo in district competition and then Wescott of Trenton for the Mount Olive sectional crown.

Playings at Normal include Athens-Shelbyville at 12:15 p.m. Friday, Barrington-Chicago Morgan Park at 7 p.m. and Rock Falls-Mendota at 8:30 p.m.

GCHS South will play LaGrange Lyons at 1:45 p.m. tomorrow.

A victory tomorrow would advance the local team into semifinal competition Saturday at 12:15 p.m. against Athens or Shelbyville.

The Saturday winner will play for the state championship at 8:30 that night.

Basketball Devils continue win streak with 67-56 victory

Defending state Class A basketball champion Venice High School extended its 1975-76 season winning streak to 11 at home Tuesday, defeating Freeburg 67-56.

The Red Devils, now 13-1, have not lost a game since bowing 67-66 to East St. Louis Lincoln in a controversial game Jan. 9.

Venice trailed 16-20 and led 36-31 and 53-42 at the quarters here Tuesday night after gradually overcoming the effectiveness of the Midgits' man-to-man harriding defense.

Three baskets by Reggie Gardner from near the sidelines put the Red Devils on top in the second period.

Two high, arching shots through the net from just outside the circle, by James Turner, extended the margin.

After Larrick Arnold added two field goals, fouls by Freeburg led to six charity tosses in a row by Venice.

Venice held the margin from the field, 28-25, and from the free throw line, 11-4. Freeburg committed the most fouls, 17-10.

Gardner poured in 22 points for Venice. Turner scored 18, Jeff Woolfork 12, Ron Salmond six, Arnold four, James Crowder three and Ricky Salmond, two.

North frosh to play for third place in tourney

GCHS North's eight-school freshman basketball tournament, which began Monday, concludes tonight with North High playing Edwardsville at 6:15 for third place, and O'Fallon playing defending tournament champion Collinsville at eight o'clock for the title.

Competition opened at the Steeler gymnasium Monday with O'Fallon defeating Belleville East 59-36 and GCHS North topping Roxana 59-32. Steeler Russ Chappell tallied 22 points.

First-round action resumed Tuesday with Edwardsville beating GCHS South 64-60, eliminating the Warriors from competing further. Warrior Mike DeGonia scored 15 points.

A second contest Tuesday saw Collinsville down Wood River 7-53.

Two semifinal contests were played yesterday. O'Fallon beat GCHS North 62-54, though Chappell scored 20 points, and Collinsville topped Edwardsville 62-55.

Deterding, North High athletic coordinator, said tickets will be available at the door at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Varsity mat meet in spotlight at North tomorrow

The GCHS North versus GCHS South varsity wrestling meet is the only high school sport event slated to be held tomorrow in Steeler gymnasium at North High.

A freshman basketball tournament, which began Monday, was listed as concluding tomorrow evening. The basketball tournament finals have been rescheduled to be concluded tonight with a third-place game at 6:15 and a championship contest at 8 o'clock.

The contest will be preceded by a junior varsity cage tilt between the two schools at 6:30 tonight.

South High (3-13) was dealt five straight losses at the start of the season and then blasted St. Louis Rosary High 74-48.

A loss to Belleville East was followed by fierce competition in the Edwardsville holiday tournament. South defeating Hillsboro 49-46 and then previously undefeated Peoria Woodruff, top-seeded school in the tourney, 71-68. The Warriors placed fourth in the meet.

South, in 16 outings, has totaled 844 points on 348 field goals and 148 charity tosses. It has controlled the rebounding in five contests.

"WHERE PRICE AND QUALITY MEET" "Downtown" Granite City

Meeting planned to resolve cost of city sewer line use

The proposed Four Township Sanitary Sewer Program is running on a new, but later schedule than previously anticipated, but those working on the project say the necessary pieces are falling together. Walter "Dick" Sparks, chairman of the Madison County Special Sewer Committee, told the Press-Record Tuesday.

Sparks said the committee has requested the state to extend its $10,300,300 grant offer to June 31, but said construction contracts are expected to be awarded before that date.

Several new snags have developed, but each is being worked out as quickly as possible, Sparks said.

One problem occurred when Granite City's city engineer, Monroe Brewer, suggested the users of the proposed new sewer pay half the cost of maintaining the existing Granite City sewers where used to carry waste from the proposed new sewers.

A written agreement is being requested by the state Environmental Protection Agency, was read to the Granite City Council Monday night and the council instructed its Pollution Plant Committee to arrange a meeting.

Another problem developing last week was quickly solved, Sparks said. He noted the Environmental Protection Agency indicated it could not complete its review of the plans for the new sewers until it received assurances from Illinois Power Co. and from Union Electric Co. that there would be alternate sources of power for the sewer pumps, should the primary electric source be halted.

Both companies gave letters of assurance to the committee that alternate sources of electricity are available. Those letters were then forwarded to the state EPA.

Sparks said final approval of the plans by the EPA has been much slower than the committee anticipated, but said the EPA has been in contact with the project's engineer, Ed Juneau, several times and assured him they are working full-time on the plans and approval should be given soon. They were submitted Nov. 15.

Financing the local portion of the cost of construction remains a problem, but the bonding attorneys and bonding company are continuing to prepare proposals for financing the project through the sale of either general obligation bonds or revenue bonds.

"It appears at this time the sale of general obligation bonds will be less expensive, but will require those using the sewers to be taxed, rather than to pay a monthly fee," Sparks noted.

No firm proposals have been submitted as the method of financing the local share, which is anticipated at from $3,336,700 to $4 million, remains under study.

One other "loose end" which must be resolved is to be the subject of a meeting tonight between the sewer committee and Collinsville city officials.

Sparks explained a separate sewer is planned to serve the State Park area of Nameoki Township, which, according to plans, will empty into the existing Collinsville sewers and be treated at that community's treatment plant.

A written agreement has not yet been made with the Collinsville officials, which will be required before that portion of the project can be approved.

When approval of any portion of the project is received from the EPA, the committee will release specifications for bidding by contractors. Bidding is anticipated on 13 separate portions of the work.

After bids for the entire project are received and construction contracts awarded, the county will know how much money it needs to raise through the sale of bonds and bond sales can begin.

Contractors are not expected to begin construction until the bonds are sold, assuring them they will be paid for their work.

Problems in financing the local share were discussed by Louis Whitsell, Nameoki Township supervisor, during Monday night's Nameoki Town Board of Auditors meeting.

Responding to questions, Whitsell detailed the possibility of establishing a special taxing district of the sewer users and using general obligation bonds to finance the local share, with the bonds paid back through taxes.

Whitsell reported he is attempting to complete the obtaining of easements for the sewer in Nameoki Township and is urging those who have been contacted about easements to either sign the easement forms immediately at the Nameoki Town Hall or to contact the township and have the forms sent to them.

Sparks reported most of the necessary easements have been obtained in Chouteau Township and he is attempting to complete the few remaining.

"In areas where we do not have all the easements, we will just have to put the sewers in the streets, rather than behind the houses. Those who refuse to sign easements will find it is far more expensive to tap-in in front of their houses than in the rear, where most house sewer outlets are located," Sparks noted.

He added progress on obtaining the sewers has been slow, but "little by little, we can see the light." He predicted construction of the sewers still will begin this summer with completion by the summer of 1977.

Plans call for a sewer from the Cloverleaf Addition and Eagle Park area to tap into the city's sewers at 16th and Iowa Street, and the main sewer from Nameoki and Venice townships to tap into the city sewers on the Granite City Army Installation.

Brewer suggested the new sewer users pay half the maintenance cost from where they enter the existing city sewers to the city's primary and secondary sewage treatment plants on the Army Installation property.

Sparks told the Press-Record, "It does not seem fair for us to pay half the cost of maintaining those big sewers when the small amount we will be putting in them will amount to only about 10 per cent of their capacities."

He suggested Harry E. Hartman, attorney for the sewer committee, contact Granite City officials and attempt to arrange a meeting to solve the issue.

Hartman's letter, which noted

Farm workers group plans pot-luck

The Granite City area support group for the United Farm Workers will give a pot-luck supper Sunday at the Madison Memorial Center, Seventh and Lee streets, Madison at 5 p.m.

Richard Cook of the St. Louis UFW staff will tell of his three months working as an organizer in the Salinas Valley.

He was in charge of the organizing activities for the entire California valley where, as of May, for the first time in history, farm workers were granted union elections by law.

The UFW has won over half of the certified elections, but many will be tied up in legal battles with the Teamsters Union, officials said.

The public is invited to attend the pot-luck and to ask any questions they may have concerning farm workers' elections, and the boycott of grapes, head lettuce, and Gallo wines.

EDUCATION

State board is like a jungle

By RAY SEKRATI

SPRINGFIELD — You can't tell the players without a scorecard.

Does that sound like you are about to enter the old ballpark? Maybe so, but it also may be used in reference to higher education in Illinois.

Down through the years a jungle of boards has been created to help higher education grow in Illinois.

Back in the 1960s the Board of Higher Education was created by the General Assembly. The theory was that the Higher Education Board would act as the intermediary between the various sections of higher education and the General Assembly. So the board was created and its membership and chairman selected by the governor. Ever since the board has tried to develop a master plan for higher education in Illinois.

Some states have copied the Illinois plan. In many cases it has been modified and in some cases it virtually was dropped after being started.

The Board of Higher Education staff also presents the budget requests of the various systems to the Bureau of the Budget (BOB). In this area sometimes hassles arise.

Under the Board of Higher Education there are five separate boards which govern or oversee various systems or universities in Illinois. All of the boards on the state level have staff members.

The University of Illinois Board of Trustees are elected, as opposed to the other four which are appointed by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The University of Illinois Board of Trustees has nine members. The board has control of three campuses. One, the main campus, is in Urbana with two others in Chicago.

The Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees are appointed. SIU has two campuses — Carbondale and Edwardsville.

Illinois State University at Normal, Northern Illinois University at DeKalb and Sangamon State University at Springfield come under the control of the Board of Regents of Regency Universities.

There are five universities that operate under the control of the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities. These include Chicago State University and Northwestern Illinois University, both in Chicago; Eastern Illinois University at Charleston; Governors State University at Park Forest; and Western Illinois University in Macomb.

Then there is the Community College Board which deals with 39 community colleges scattered throughout Illinois. Each of the individual community colleges have boards which are elected. The boards then have their own staff members.

So higher education continues to grow in Illinois, even if you can't figure out the players without a scorecard.

WIND POWER

Old mill on way back

By MARJ HOLBROOK

BATAVIA, Ill. — Windmills.

Rusting beside a modernized farmhouse. Silhouetted on a Johnny Cash album. Splashed across the cover of Popular Mechanics.

Windmills.

Vane spinning, automotons whose riggings broke the western prairies as much as any plow.

Batavians now are saying the windmill isn't dead, not even pumping its last gasp. They say it's alive and well, perched on top the 20-foot tower, waving its 12-foot arms.

Ecologists across the nation are leading the comeback message. Windmills may be a "new" source of power.

A Massachusetts professor thinks windmills might be good used on derricks three miles at sea to generate electricity. Wind seldom stops at sea.

Another professor has a fantastic dream about a sea of windmills on the midwest prairie. There would be hundreds per acre, twisting 20- to 50-foot wheels generating kilowatts above the amber waves of grain.

So serious are these ideas, that the Illinois Research Survey is conducting a study to investigate wind power for the ecological generation.

Batavia already has indicated its willingness to be a study city.

Batavia was the Windmill City from 1870 through the 1920s, so it has a vested interest in the project. Under the trade names Challenge and U.S. Batavia, windmills went around the world.

If Batavians wish the windmill factories never closed, no one is saying it. But they are resurrecting the heritage of the three W's — windmills, wagons and wire — that stretched westward across the nation a century ago.

Batavia industry made two of the W's... windmills and wagons.

The windmill plants, already depressed by the 1930s, churned to a halt in World War II.

The winds of change came when the men who had owned and operated the plants were either dying or retiring. Windmills never made a Batavia comeback.

Today only three companies in the nation manufacture windmills: Heller Alter Co., Napoleon, Ohio; Dempster Industries, Beatrice, Neb.; and Braden Industries, Broken Arrow, Okla.

About 5,000 windmills are produced annually by the three firms. Nearly all of them are shipped to growing nations in Asia and Africa.

From 1800 to 1880, windmill sales exceeded $1 million annually. Challenge windmills sold for as little as $12.50 complete. In the same 20 years, there were more than 900 U.S. patents issued for windmill improvements.

Some of the most important were to Daniel Halladay. He invented a windmill that was self-controlling in various wind velocities.

In this age of nostalgia and conservation, windmills have a double magnetism.

There is the romance and the reminder of simpler times.

And there is the promise of a safe, usable power source.

How loud is too loud?

By MARION WELLS
"Honey, I can't hear you over that record player." Rather than turn the volume down, "honey" raises his voice. Bert thought the air conditioner sounded quiet enough in the store. Hearing it in his living room, combined with people talking and the TV turned on, he wishes he'd shopped around for a quieter model. With over-all environmental noise levels said to be getting louder each year, it seems one question is being asked more loudly than ever: "How loud is too loud?" The answers to that question may affect your hearing, your health and the quality of your life. Scientists believe the effects of noise to be of increasing health consequence as sound intensity increases or exposure is prolonged. Noise around the home may actually approach industrial levels, giving our ears little rest. We can also begin to go deaf at our leisure. Raymond E. Jordan, M.D., notes, "There are a number of scientific reports showing nerve damage in teen-agers from exposure to live rock-and-roll music." Noise may also reach high levels at discotheques, amusement parks and highways. Other significant sources of noise include snowmobiles, motorcycles, motorboats, home shop tools and a blaring hi-fi or television set. What other effects may noise have on health? The autonomic nervous system, which regulates digestive, heart, circulatory and involuntary muscle responses, may react to noise. Noise can trigger a rise in blood pressure. Can noise be a factor in cancer? A Scandinavian authority raises the possibility. Recently Ambio, a publication of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, devoted an issue to the work environment. Writing on noise, Aage R. Møller of the Karolinska Institute noted there is evidence to suggest that sound of sufficient intensity may give rise to increased production of certain hormones, leading to such effects as a rise in blood sugar level and suppression of the immunological system's activity. Regarding one of those hormones, cortisol, Møller goes on to state, "Recent studies have shown that an increased cortisol secretion may reduce the detoxifying function of the liver... There is thus a possibility that noise in that way may increase the hazard of carcinogenic substances that have entered the body." Noise may also, to varying degrees, create annoyance, disturb sleep and interfere with relaxation and normal conversation, with implications for both physical and emotional well-being. Be alert to the following indications that you're being subjected to hazardous noise levels: (1) the need to shout to make yourself heard during noise exposure, (2) pain, "fullness" or "ringing" in your ears during or after exposure, or (3) dulled hearing following exposure. Give yourself frequent

"quiet breaks." It's been noted that "...if noise exposure is interrupted by relatively quiet periods, the hazard is reduced compared with continuous exposure of the same duration." At home, plan to reduce the number of noise-makers operating at any one time. Buy the quietest appliances you can find, and bypass needlessly noisy toys. Note that closed doors, drapes, carpeting, appropriate ceiling acoustics and well-placed outdoor shrubbery help to muffle sound.

University employees study as well as work

by Tommye Walter

During the past quarter at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, 198 employees arranged time away from their desks or job stations to participate in classroom learning experiences. Many of the workers will ultimately earn a degree.

These employees are taking advantage of low-cost, on-the-job educational benefits available to workers at the University. A great number of degree earners in the past have been secretaries who have gone into teaching positions after getting their degrees, according to Edward Leardi, personnel officer at the University. However, that trend is beginning to change, Leardi said.

"That's going to change because of women being enticed into the business world. There's a good market in business for women right now. It's a good career," he said. Obtaining a degree while holding down a full-time job is not easy. Employees can take only two courses within a single quarter, and only one of those can be scheduled during the daily working hours. Workers must make other provisions for attending the other class. Some employees use their lunch hour. Others use vacation time to enroll in credit-earning workshops.

Still other people attend night classes after spending grueling days in the office. Twelve hours of sitting behind a secretarial desk and a student station can make for a very long day.

Other employees take advantage of weekend format courses offered by the School of Business which meet all day Friday, Saturday and Sunday two different weekends during the quarter.

Carol J. Vanhuss, a secretary in the General Studies office at the University, is close to getting a degree in education. She will probably begin her student teaching next spring, hoping to locate either in Iowa or Colorado.

Employees are allowed a leave of absence to do their student teaching, according to Leardi. "We will bend over backwards to help someone graduate," he said.

When Miss Vanhuss enrolled in her first class back in 1967, she had no ambition for taking more than one course. "I was interested in learning," she said. When she got her first A, she decided she could do it.

Gaining confidence in her ability to learn, Miss Vanhuss passed a proficiency exam for one course, took advantage of Open University courses, and attended credit-earning workshops during her summer vacations.

"There were times when I thought I wouldn't finish. But now I see the light at the end of the tunnel," Miss Vanhuss said.

Going to college is the realization of a childhood dream for Miss Vanhuss. "When I was in high school, I was impressed by those who went on to college," she said. "Things were different in those days. You didn't think you'd be able to go to college," she added.

Each quarter between 90 and 130 workers enroll in classes at the University. Out of more than 800 civil service employees, Leardi feels that is a significant number. Twenty-five percent of them are enrolled in two courses; the rest are taking one class.

Usually new employees go through a probationary period before starting their educational experience, but that decision depends on their departmental head. If their supervisor feels they would benefit by the experience, the employees may be allowed to take classes as soon as they are employed, Leardi said.

"If they need training, why not send them?" he said.

Why do the employees get into the hassle of classroom learning? Some are interested in obtaining better jobs and see education as a stepping stone, Leardi said. Others see the educational benefits as a chance to upgrade their skills in their present positions.

"The University campus is where the solutions to our current problems will come from," Leardi said.

"When we turn graduates out, they are probably more open to new life experiences than they will ever be, more open to problems that need solving in the business world," Leardi said. "People like Miss Vanhuss want to be part of that action."

Auto plate sales above last year

With the deadline two and a half weeks away, a total of 2,811,718 Bicentennial 1976 license plates have been purchased, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett has announced.

This is 377,983 more than had been sold one year ago at a corresponding date. "Most of earlier sales have come from the heavy demand for reassignment and special requests this year," Howlett said.

The new 1976 plates must be displayed on all vehicles after the deadline of midnight, Feb. 15.

SECRETARY REALIZES AMBITIONS—Carol Vanhuss (left), secretary in the General Studies office at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, discusses educational opportunities with Kay Long of Godfrey, a mass communications major at the University. Miss Vanhuss has almost completed requirements for a degree in education while working full-time at the University.

TAX FACTS IRS offers 'Business Tax Kit'

Q. I purchased a certificate of deposit for $10,000 from my local bank. The certificate is redeemable in five years for $13,000. Do I report this interest at maturity or each year? — J.V.

A. The $3,000 is deferred interest of "original issue discount" and must be reported each year on a monthly pro rata basis. In your case, you are considered to have received as interest one-sixtieth of the deferred interest or $50 for each month of the five-year holding period. Thus, you must include 12 times $50 or $720 (or a prorated portion for less than full year) as interest on your tax return. For more information, see IRS Publication 501, "Questions and Answers Regarding Original Issue Discount on Savings Deposit Arrangements," available free from your IRS office.

Q. I recently read an article in a local magazine that indicated the Internal Revenue Service provided information to businessmen contemplating going into business for themselves. Is it true that this information is available? — E.G.

A. The Internal Revenue Service is putting greater emphasis on the new Taxpayer Service Division which has as its goal taxpayer compliance through providing needed information and assistance, thus lessening the need for enforcement due to non-compliance. Contact your local IRS office's Taxpayer Service Division. From this office you can obtain many free publications useful

This book will give extensive review of proprietorship, partnership and corporation income and business, excise and employment taxes. Big political names on line in 1976 balloting

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — Some big Illinois political figures, whose names will not be on the ballot, could become casualties in the 1976 primary election.

They include Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy.

All three are already deeply involved in Democratic or Republican primary battles and their immediate and long-range political power and prestige will be affected by the various outcomes.

Although Daley has been the "boss" of the Illinois Democratic party as well as the city of Chicago for 20 years, he never has been as directly embroiled in a political campaign as he is in the battle for the nomination for governor between incumbent Dan Walker and Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett.

The Howlett slate — as Walker correctly reminds the voters day after day — is a Daley ticket. This may be unfair to Howlett, who has on his own compiled a distinguished record in state government service, but from a hard-nosed, practical, political viewpoint, Walker is right.

Walker's big hope for victory is to convince enough of the rank and file voters that is true. There are some early indications that he may be succeeding.

It is possible, too, that Daley may be helping him out.

There has been some subsurface grumbling among the Howlett people at the Statehouse that the mayor is talking too much. They fear he is playing into Walker's hand.

A case in point was the mayor's recent attack on Walker at a United Auto Workers union luncheon at Chicago.

At one point his voice rose to a shout as the mayor charged that Walker "never walked the state — he rode half the time."

The charge in itself was pretty silly. The famed Walker walk prior to the 1972 primary campaign was thoroughly reported. Although he has been accused of a great many things since becoming governor, no one up to now has accused him of cheating on that famous walk.

Statehouse strategists, who have long held Daley in high regard as a master politician, are surprised that he would allow himself to be so carried away as to make such a charge. Privately there are Statehouse suggestions that sensibly may at last be catching up with the 72-year-old mayor.

He also has alienated many Downstate Democrats by his persistent, if apparently unsuccessful effort, to obtain a larger number of Democratic National Convention delegates for Chicago.

Some concerned Democrats, who genuinely feel Walker has been a poor governor and should be replaced with a proven performer like Howlett, fear the mayor's unprecedented dominance of party politics could trigger a backlash in areas beyond control of the Chicago organization and sweep Walker back into office.

On the Republican front there is uneasiness among the supporters of President Gerald Ford about the increasing prominence being given Ogilvie as the head of the Ford campaign structure in this state.

That Ogilvie was an outstanding governor especially when compared to Walker — is increasingly recognized by those versed in state government. Democrats as well as Republicans. Daley himself is a notable example.

But from a purely political standpoint, some Republican loyalists fear that Ogilvie is about as helpful to anyone's candidacy as would be Richard Nixon.

Resentment about that income tax still lingers in the ranks of middle-class and higher income GOP voters. Rank and file party workers Downstate have not been too happy to see some aides and administrators, whose self-centered activities in the past contributed to the former governor's drop in popularity, once again maneuvering in the Ford effort.

Ogilvie's organizing and administrative ability are respected, but there is a feeling that he is not a good relations and that the Ford effort might benefit from leadership by someone not associated with past defeat.

Cooper puzzles voters

SPRINGFIELD — He's young, rich and handsome — one of the most successful self-made businessmen in America.

But does he amount to anything in Illinois politics? That's the enigma posed by Richard H. Cooper, 38, of Winnetka, who is running for the Republican nomination for governor.

Up to now there has been an inclination beneath the Statehouse Dome to dismiss his candidacy as something of a joke. At best, he has been considered more token opposition to the choice of about all party leaders, Chicago federal prosecutor James R. Thompson.

But some second thoughts have been developing in state political circles and there are those who counsel against regarding the Cooper candidacy too lightly.

The apparent vacillation over whether to shrug off Cooper as a political buffoon or to regard him as a possible candidate for governor — stems in large measure from the man's personality.

Despite his great success in the business world and the experience of once hosting a Chicago television talk-show, Cooper enters a press conference with all the wariness of a fraternity candidate facing the pledge committee.

One would expect much more poise and a more forceful and sparkling response to questions. But Cooper comes over about as exciting as former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, never known for charisma.

Even more than most politicians, the man who made a fortune through Weight Watchers virtually refuses to answer a question head-on, but trails off into remotely related generalities. Gov. Dan Walker, who can be as agilely elusive as Muhammad Ali in the early rounds in fielding press conference questions, is a Sen. Barry Goldwater in frankness compared to Cooper.

Cooper has listed education, transportation and welfare as the three major issues in the gubernatorial campaign, but he has said precious little about them specifically.

He has come up with a number of proposals for easing some state problems, but these have not impressed career students of state government, who doubt their practicality.

Cooper has suggested the formation of a public leasing authority for developing state facilities and such things as school buildings and sewer treatment plants instead of having the state buy or build them itself.

He also has proposed a complicated plan for helping to finance college expenses and the teachers' retirement plans.

Cooper got off to a bad start with legislative reporters last summer by disclosing — for a candidate for governor — a woeful lack of knowledge about state government and how it operates.

Asked last week if he had done anything to overcome this deficiency, he replied that it was something that would probably remain with him through a first term as governor!

Why, with all this going against him, would anyone think that Cooper has a chance to be nominated and elected?

Perhaps because of the mood of the times: professional politicians in Illinois, as elsewhere, detect among the electorate a desire for new faces, someone out of the traditional political mold.

Cooper is certainly that. His unorthodox style of personal campaigning may win him votes such as Walker's did for him when the governor was a political unknown.

Cooper's youthful good looks could be a big help on television, providing he can maneuver sufficient exposure. His vague and sometimes silly answers to questions about state issues, although they may annoy those knowledgeable in the field, may not bother general voters if they pay any attention to them at all.

In politics it matters far less what a candidate says on television than how he looks and conducts himself.

Civil War

149 regiments of infantry, numbered from the 7th to the 150th. This would make 150, but, the 121st failed to complete its organization.

Also there were 17 regiments of cavalry and 23 batteries of artillery for a total of 225,300 soldiers.

Most enlistments were for "three years or the war."

Some reenlisted for a second term, and some regiments were raised for shorter periods.

In May 1862, a call was made for three months regiments to relieve veteran regiments on guard duty.

Of these, the 67th and 69th Regiments of Infantry went to Camp Douglas, Chicago; the 68th to Washington, D. C.; the 70th to Camp Butler, Rock Island, and the 71st to Cairo and posts in Kentucky.

Early in 1864, a similar call was made for volunteer regiments to serve 100 days guard duty to relieve veteran regiments.

The Illinois regiments on this call were numbered 132nd to 143rd, and 145th.

There was also a separate Alton Battalion of two large companies.

Of these, the 136th and 139th volunteered for additional service on their way home because of a guerrilla outbreak in Missouri.

The missing number 144th was taken by a one-year regiment raised late in 1864.

Additional one-year regiments were raised for guard duty in 1865 and were numbered 146th to 156th.

Although the cavalry regiments were numbered from 1st to 17th, it is also of record that the escort of Brigadier General Jefferson C. Davis at the battle of Stones River was Company B, 36th Illinois Cavalry.

This was because Companies A and B of the 36th Regiment were cavalry.

The two companies were usually detached from the infantry regiment and eventually became Companies I and K, 15th Cavalry.

Two Illinois companies in the Battle of Fredericksburg were known as A and B, McClellan Dragoons.

Later, they became Companies H and I, 12th Illinois Cavalry, one of two Illinois cavalry regiments that fought in the Eastern campaigns.

The other was the 8th, credited with firing the first shot at Gettysburg.

A few days before, Captain Elton J. Farnsworth of the 8th had been one of three young officers jumped to brigadier general. The two others were Captain Wesley Merritt, who lived to command in the capture of Manila in the Spanish-American War, and Lieutenant George A. Custer, who was killed in 1876 in "Custer's Last Stand" on the Little Big Horn.

General Farnsworth was killed at Gettysburg.

Illinois had two regiments of light artillery, accounting for 24 of the 33 batteries.

But since artillery never fought as regiments, there was no irregularity in having such separate organizations as the Chicago Board of Trade Battery, Chicago Mercantile Battery, Springfield Light Artillery, Renwick's Elgin Battery, Bridges' Battery, Cogswell's Battery, Henshaw's Battery and others named for their captains.

Nearly all Illinois organizations moved south through Cairo to take part in the western campaigns of the Army of the Cumberland.

A few took part in other western campaigns, garrisoned posts, and a half dozen or so fought in the campaigns in the East.

Many heard their first shots fired at Fort Donelson or at Shiloh.

When Grant moved his troops to besiege Vicksburg early in 1863, every unit that could be cut loose from guard or garrison duty was sent to his aid. Illinois had 18 organizations at Vicksburg, twice as many as any other state.

Many Illinois regiments took part in the battles of Chickamauga and Chattanooga, including Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge.

And when Sherman united the Army of the Tennessee, the Army of the Cumberland, and the Army of the Ohio for the advance on Atlanta, he had with him 80 Illinois organizations.

The Illinois monument at Kennesaw Mountain is the only state monument on that battlefield. Illinois also put up state monuments at Shiloh, Vicksburg, Missionary Ridge and Orchard Knob (Chattanooga) as well as monuments to each organization taking part in these battles, and three at Gettysburg.

There are also Illinois monuments at Andersonville and Memphis National Cemetery.

A regiment credited to the state, although not having Illinois in its designation, was the 29th United States Colored Infantry, raised largely in Chicago.

It suffered heavy casualties in the ineffective Battle of the Crater when a mine was exploded under Confederate defenses at Petersburg.

A new Regular Army regiment, the 13th United States Cavalry, was also organized in Chicago.

A large number of general officers were Illinois men.

Grant and Logan are mentioned in the state song.

Among others holding important commands were John A. McClernand, Jacksonville; John M. Palmer, Carlinville; Benjamin H. Grierson, Jacksonville; Eugene A. Carr, Galesburg.

James H. Wilson, Shawneetown; Michael K. Lawler, Equality; W. H. L. Walla, Ottawa; killed at Shiloh; Elton J. Farnsworth, Rockton, killed at Gettysburg; John A. Rawlinson, Galena, Grant's chief of staff.

John E. Smith, Galena; Stephen A. Hurlbut, Belvidere; Benjamin M. Prentiss, Quincy; John McArthur, Chicago; Elias Dennis, Carlyle; and John M. Schofield, Freeport.

Plan review

The mayor suggested that some action be taken to acquire insurance immediately on that part of the plant proposed for takeover at this time.

"Some arrangement must be made soon," the mayor said, noting that "this particular portion ready for acceptance involves concrete structures and may not be as important as other parts of the plant which will be released soon."

However, Schuler added, insurance coverage will be "very important" equipment when that part of the plant including electronic equipment is ready to be released to the city by the engineers and the contractor.

"There is several millions in electronic equipment in that plant," the mayor said.

Coleman said he would check into several existing insurance policies held by the city under which immediate coverage might be obtained through a policy rider, providing treatment plant coverage until arrangements for separate insurance contracts can be worked out.

At the same time, Coleman told the council:

"We have a number of insurance policies in which all city properties are covered at this time, but I'm not aware as to the amount of coverage and whether or not we have full coverage. I believe it is time a complete study be made of our insurance program and that this be done by an experienced insurance broker who could recommend an updated insurance program."

Council members agreed that because of inflation over recent years, all the city's insurance pacts should be modernized. They voted to authorize City Clerk Robert Stevens to advertise for an insurance broker make the study.

In action related to the operation of the secondary treatment plant, the council voted to purchase a 48 by 28 storage building constructed by the contractor on the treatment plant grounds at a cost of $4,889, to be used as an electrical shop and for storage purposes.

Alderman Clyde Boyd of the Pollution Plant Committee said the building was offered to the city for the cost of its construction by the contractor who preferred to dispose of rather than tear it down when all construction work is completed.

Robert Jackson, superintendent of the primary and secondary treatment plants, said the building would fill a need for shop and storage purposes and that the city could not build such a building for twice the cost.

The council, on a motion by Boyd, also authorized Stevens to call bids for furnishing the Street Department a new street sweeper.

$10,000 fine for allowing the discharges, plus $1,000 for each day the violation continued.

Byron charges the leak started about Nov. 13 and continued, unabated, to about Dec. 29, a total of about 45 days.

Byron said the civil suit was filed by him with the cooperation of the Illinois Attorney General's office and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Paul T. Hawkins, head of the Madison County Environmental Control Department, said efforts have been made to flush the banks of the ditch, but dredging of the mud may be necessary. He wants the city to assign the responsibility for cleaning the ditch and banks to Apex.

The ditch flows south through the Tri-City Regional Port District, through the property leased by Apex from the port, and south onto the Granite City Army Installation golf course. The water then is discharged by a pump into the Mississippi River.

Apex said it has been cleaning the ditch and banks to Apex.

Drug arrests now reach 18

A white powder and some pills seized at the home of Alan L. Hampton, 27, of 2258 Grand Ave., last week have been analyzed by the state crime laboratory as heroin and amphetamine sulphate, a spokesman for the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEG) said this week.

Hampton and Robert A. Yates, 28, a guest in his home, have been charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance.

The arrests were made during execution of a search warrant for Hampton's home stemming from a MEG undercover investigation into drug traffic.

The arrests and one other elsewhere in the county last week brought to 18 the number of persons arrested in connection with the latest MEG operation.

The series of arrests was the third in Madison County in recent months conducted by MEG and the Illinois Bureau of Investigation. Forty persons were arrested in the previous two series of arrests.

Recession cuts National Steel earnings; steel demand improving

National Steel Corporation earned $58,040,671, or $3.10 per share, in 1975, its chairman, George A. Stinson, announced Monday in Pittsburgh.

Fourth quarter 1975 earnings were $14,438,555, or 77 cents per share. For the quarter and the year, sales, earnings and revenues were well below those of 1974.

"Steel demand in 1975 fell to levels not seen in this country for a decade," Stinson said. "As a consequence, National Steel experienced a depressed year in almost all respects."

"Shipments sank to the lowest point since 1962 and earnings to the lowest amount since 1971."

Sales and operating revenue for 1975 totaled $2,241,166,911, compared with $2,727,774,484 in 1974.

For the fourth quarter of 1975, they were $553,312,976, against $696,111,814 in the comparable 1974 quarter.

Shipments in 1975 totaled 5,189,500 tons, compared with 8,790,000 tons in 1974.

"For 1976, the prospects are brighter," Stinson said.

"Steel demand began to show a modest but steady trend of improvement in the later months of 1975. This trend is continuing upward on a sharper curve in the first quarter."

The general recession in 1975 brought about a major liquidation of steel inventories in customers' plants, Stinson said, pointing out that domestic steel shipments in 1975 dropped 27 per cent while domestic steel consumption was down only 12 per cent.

That relationship has improved, he added.

Domestic consumption in 1976 is estimated at 7 per cent above 1975. Domestic shipment estimates for this year are 19 per cent greater than 1975.

"Steel inventories in our customers' plants went from record highs at the end of 1974 to record low levels at the end of 1975," Chairman Stinson said.

"In our business, there is no remedy adequate to deal fully with the drastic effects of low volume in production and shipments. Consequently, meaningful improvement in earnings has had to await better business levels, which we have begun to see."

Investment credit in 1975 totaled $14,800,000, compared with $4,350,000 in 1974. For the fourth quarter of 1975, investment credit was $7,300,000, compared with $1,700,000 in the fourth 1974 quarter.

Subsidiaries of National Steel are Weirton Steel, Great Lakes Steel, Granite City Steel, Midwest Steel, Hanna Furnace, National Steel Service Centers, National Steel Products, National Aluminum, National Pipe & Tube, Bull Moose Tube, Transportation Products, Hanna Iron Ore and National Mines.

THE COIN BOX

Official medal notes Bicentennial year

By GARY L. PALMER
America's 200th birthday present to Americans is the nation's official Bicentennial medal on sale through the end of July.

Featuring America's best-known symbol — the Statue of Liberty — on the obverse and the Great Seal of the United States on the reverse, the medal should be within the price range of most citizens. It is being minted in several combinations of size and metal to provide everyone an opportunity to acquire a permanent commemorative of America's celebration of its 200th anniversary, according to John W. Warner, administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA).

There will also be a gold version of the medal — the first gold medals in the history of the United States — authorized specifically by Congress for sale to the public.

The medals are available in bronze, gold-plated bronze, and sterling silver as well. The price range will be from $5 to $4,000.

The latter cost will be for a three-inch-in-diameter version, made from gold in the U.S. Treasury reserves. The gold medals will be individually numbered and only made to order. It contains 16 ounces of .900 fine gold.

It will be interesting to see how many of this version are sold. Smaller gold medals are the 1.5-inch-in-diameter at $400 and one at just under an inch in diameter for $100. The last is designed specifically to be easily incorporated into jewelry.

The other medals include a three-inch silver medal at $300 and a 1 1/2-inch sterling silver at $25. A 1 1/2-inch gold-plated bronze medal sells for $15 and the same size in plain bronze is $5.

Designer of the medal is none other than the U.S. Mint's chief engraver, Frank Gasparro.

The words "Life, Liberty and Pursuit of Happiness" appear on either side of the Statue of Liberty and the dates 1776 and 1976 emanate from the rays of the Liberty's torch. Fifty stars — one for each state — border the design.

The reverse, with the focus on the Great Seal, has "American Revolution Bicentennial" and "We the People" around the medal's border, bisected by the ARBA's now well known star logo.

Despite clamoring from hobbyists for a gold medal to commemorate the nation's 200th birthday, none was forthcoming.

At least the gold medal compensates to a degree and the U.S. Mint is striking it, but it still fails to soothe most members of the numismatic fraternity who thought a coin would be more appropriate. The medal is available only to those people whose letters are postmarked prior to July 31 of this year. There is a limit of five of each medal per order.

A cherrywood presentation case, lined with velvet, is included with the two largest gold medals. A similar case of birch goes with the small gold medal. The other medals are in leather-textured cases. Orders should be sent to ARBA, P.O. Box 1976, San Francisco, Calif. 94101. Send money order or check made out to ARBA.

ASK THE DOCTOR

Low blood pressure can cause problems

By WILLIAM J. GOLDWAG, M.D.

Q. It would be of interest I'm sure to many of us to read about low, too low blood pressure, symptoms and so on. All one ever reads about is high blood pressure. Can low blood pressure harm you? Some doctors say it is good for you but I know people who are sick with it. Which is right?

A. Normal blood pressure covers a wide range of readings. A level of 100-60 can mean many things depending on whose reading it is. It is normal for teenagers at rest. It indicates a serious complication in a 45-year-old man whose usual pressure is 170-94 and who has just suffered a heart attack. In a patient with high blood pressure being treated with drugs, it may be the cause of dizziness, faintness and lack of coordination when they stand up, due to too much of the medicine. In a patient with a bleeding ulcer and a rapid pulse, it may mean they are going into shock.

The only people in whom the 100-60 is normal are those with nothing else wrong with them. Some people have blood pressure consistently below 100 and these people are apt to have chronic fatigue, lack of energy, light-headedness, lack of ambition, sleepiness, trouble getting going in the morning, sometimes nervousness, cold hands and feet, etc. They are often told they are neurotic or nervous because they have no specific disease that can be diagnosed by their physician. Careful testing will frequently show functional hypoglycemia and metabolic imbalance which can be treated and the neurosis "cured" without psychiatric therapy or life-time tranquilizer addiction.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Children's benefits may extend to 22

Q. My former husband and I were married 28 years and he now pays child support to me for our 11-year-old son. He is now 62 and has filed for Social Security.

How can I get benefits for my son? — L.L.B.

A. Just go to your nearest Social Security office with the child's birth certificate. Benefits will be paid until your son is 18 and, if he continues in school as a full-time student after 18, benefits may be paid until he is 22.

Q. In 1937 when I applied for a Social Security card I mistakenly thought I had a middle name which I had registered on my card, and I have been using the middle name or initial ever since.

I now find I was never christened with a middle name.

Can I continue to use the middle name or initial until such time as I apply for Social Security retirement?

What should I do? — J.J.K.

A. You need do nothing until you apply for retirement benefits. At that time you will be asked to submit a copy of your birth certificate. Use or omission of a middle name or initial is not considered a major name discrepancy and can, in most instances, be corrected with a simple statement from you.

Q. I have been disabled for three years and collect $172 per month from Social Security. My wife is 62 and receives $105 per month based on her own work.

Doctors have given me a year to live and I would like to know how much my wife would receive in the event of my death. — D.B.

A. Widow's benefits depend on the age of the widow. At age 65 your widow would receive 100 per cent of your benefit rate.

If she were under 65 it would depend on the actual number of months under age 65 at the time of entitlement to widow's benefits.

HEART ATTACK

Delay in seeking help can kill

Why is heart disease such a killer? Dr. Leon D. Ostrander, Jr., a University of Michigan professor and heart specialist, says part of the answer lies in the heart patient's own reaction to the ailment.

Hesitation and denial of symptoms are two of the major reasons why so many heart attack victims die. They simply don't seek help in time, Ostrander says.

Part of the fault also lies with the doctor, he concedes. Until physicians educate their patients, especially older males, to call or go for help when they notice heart symptoms, there will be little improvement in death statistics, Ostrander says.

Most people who suffer fatal heart seizures have been under a doctor's care, according to the Michigan educator who has made a statistical study of deaths caused by heart attack.

"Many know or suspect they have heart trouble, but still they die before a doctor, nurse, ambulance driver or any other paramedical person has a chance to help them," Ostrander said in an interview.

In some respects, he adds, heart patients are like wounded animals. Despite the availability of lifesaving equipment and medical personnel in hospitals, factory clinics, aid stations and fire stations, the afflicted tend to "hole up" away from help, Ostrander said.

"If they become sick at the office, they go home to rest," he said.

"If they feel ill at a convention or on vacation, they go back to their hotel room to lie down for awhile. This is how most of them die, usually beyond help by the time it arrives."

"Statistically, about 20 per cent of fatal heart attacks are instantaneous or nearly so," the cardiologist said. "Another 45 per cent die within the first 90 minutes after symptoms are noticed. From there, the death rate levels to the 24-hour mark."

Ironically, he notes, by the time the average heart attack patient comes under appropriate medical care, the period of maximum risk has passed.

Delay, Ostrander says, often ranges from two to four hours, depending on "patient decision" time, transportation and medical decision time.

After they notice signs of illness, most patients seek the advice of a friend or relative, then rest or slow down. Calling the doctor, unfortunately, is third on the list and sometimes is followed by turning to prescription or patent medicines and sometimes drinking — either more or less than usual, according to Ostrander.

"The patient must be made to realize the greatest hope of recovery is getting to the nearest hospital by the fastest means possible, even if he or she only suspects a heart attack," he said.

WILLIAM T. FRAZIER
Agent Appointed

State Farm names new agent in area

The appointment of William T. Frazier as a State Farm Insurance agent in the Granite City area was announced by company officials this week.

Frazier, a 15-year veteran with the company, will maintain offices at 2126 Pontoon Road in Maryland Plaza Shopping Center. He has been assigned to the Belleville area, where he and his family currently reside. The family is expected to move to Granite City in future months, a company spokesman advised.

An active member of the U.S. Army from 1951 to 1953, Frazier served with the National Guard from 1956 to 1965, holding the rank of captain.

He received a bachelor of science degree in psychology in 1950 from the University of Illinois and a Chartered Life Underwriters degree (CLU) from the American College of Life Underwriters in 1974. He was designated a Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter (CPCU) in 1973, after completing courses at the American Institute for Property and Liability.

Frazier is a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters and a member of the board of directors of the East Side Underwriters Association.

He holds membership on the Estate Planning Council of St. Louis and at Signal Hill Methodist Church, Belleville, and with the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Frazier and his wife, Kathryn, are the parents of three sons, Douglas Tedford, 15 years, John T., 22, and Bradley J., 19 years.

The area's newest State Farm agent may be contacted at 451-7507.

Madison Mothers plan bike rodeo

Mrs. Margaret Blackshere, president of the Madison Mothers Club, led a discussion on a bicycle rodeo planned in May at Louis Baer School during a meeting at Harris School last week.

Members participated in a "white elephant" sale, with the proceeds to be donated to the March of Dimes campaign.

The group also voted a contribution to Madison High School to help defray the cost of the school yearbooks.

Hostesses Mrs. Rose Lawrence and Mrs. Christine DeLoach served refreshments to 16 members after the business session.

Senior Girl Scout meeting at Scott

Senior Girl Scouts of River Bluffs Girl Scout Council will sponsor the annual senior conference at Scott Air Force Base gym, Belleville, Saturday and Sunday, it was announced by the council office.

Theme of the conference is "76 and Scouting Mix." Registration will cost $8.75 per person. For more information, those interested may call the council office at 345-1800.

During the weekend, the girls will attend sessions in weaving, silversmithing, book making, quilting and self defense. A banquet is planned Saturday evening.

Woman faces 10 charges

Granite City police alleged chasing a car from 23rd Street and Namecki Road to 27th Street and Washington Avenue at 3:20 a.m. Tuesday, finally stopping a woman driver who faces 10 charges. Two police cars were involved in the chase. Mrs. Danni L. Reisinger, 30, of 1810 August St., was charged with violating a red traffic light at East 23rd Street and Namecki Road, speeding (70 miles-per-hour in a 30 mph zone) at East 23rd and Henry streets, and stop sign violations along Kate Street at Lincoln Avenue, East 24th Street, Edwards Street, East 25th Street and Hodges Avenue, and at 27th Street and Washington Avenue. When police were bringing her through the rear door of the police station, they alleged seeing a .38 caliber revolver in her right coat pocket. She also was charged with unlawful use of a weapon and not having a firearm owner's identification card.

Girl, 5, hurt in accident

A young girl was injured when the cars of Brenda Clark, 3001 Ash St., and Sharon Bittick, 433 Highway 182, were involved in an accident in the 2100 block of Elm Street at 3:10 p.m. Monday. Tina Clark, 5, a passenger in her mother's car, struck her head and neck on the dashboard of the car during the accident and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital. X-rays were taken of her skull, jaw and spine and she was released. Brenda Clark, 8, who also was in the car, escaped injury.

New grand jury is impaneled

Five Quad-City area residents are among 23 members of a new Madison County grand jury, impaneled Monday by Chief Criminal Judge William L. Beatty and sworn in by Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell. Granite City residents on the grand jury are Dixie Wolfe Jr., 2235 Bryan Ave., George E. Knapp, 3301 Harvard Place, Angeline Macias, 2132 Waterman Ave., and Darryl Vankirk, 2593 Stratford Lane. Also serving is Michael W. Darling, 607 Washington Ave., Madison.

CAR STEREO TAKEN
 A combination stereo and radio, valued at about $175, was stolen from the auto of Larry McKenzie, 2032 Twelfth St., parked at his home, he reported at 1 p.m. Monday. Entry was believed gained by reaching through a window which previously was broken.

Polish-Americans pleased, join ranks of perennial Polish pinochle players

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

"Polish pinochle just cracks me up," and "Lost it all playing Polish pinochle," are two slogans being seen throughout the country and much of the world atop photos of a grinning and naked baby in advertisements for a card game invented by two area men who work in Granite City.

The name has not been taken as a reflection on the nationality, they report. Instead, about 70 per cent of the orders for the game have been from persons identifying themselves as Polish-Americans, Gary Hartle, St. Louis, one of the game's inventors, explained this week.

"The Polish-American Congress has even ordered several games," he added.

Hartle and David Duncan of Glen Carbon, employees of Orkin Exterminating Co., 2715 E. 23rd St., said they invented the game after growing tired of trying to decide whether to play pinochle or poker.

"Gary prefers poker and I prefer pinochle, so we just kind of combined them," Duncan said. "When we tried the finished product, we got kind of carried away."

"During one hand, Gary had commented, 'Looks Polish to me,' and the name was born," Duncan added.

"The game is easy to understand, even for a beginner," Hartle said, explaining there is a rules book and then there is an instruction book to explain the rules book.

The final notation in the rules book states, "For clarification of any rule, please turn to page two." The player quickly realizes that every page in the rule book is numbered page two.

"For that matter, every page in the instruction book is numbered page three. Why? Well, it seemed like a good idea at the time," Hartle commented.

The baby wearing only a bonnet shows on each card and Duncan said that's why the name was chosen. The baby was his one-year-old daughter, Melissa. Hartle said he had a professional photographer take the picture, but he was responsible for the smile.

"I took one of her dolls to the photo session and did everything with that doll but stand on my head holding it, but no smile," he recalled.

"Finally, when I was about to give up, I bit the head off the doll and Melissa thought that was the funniest thing she ever saw. She didn't stop laughing for several minutes and that's when we got our good photographs," he said.

Two different photos are being used for Polish pinochle advertisements in Playboy magazine—the smiling baby for "Polish pinochle just cracks me up," and a pensive baby for "Lost it all playing Polish pinochle."

The magazine's worldwide distribution has led to the local firm receiving orders for the game from Canada, the African Kingdom, Poland and other parts of the world.

It is sold through a Granite City post office box.

The game uses 49 cards from nine to ace with two of each number in each suit. There also are two wild cards.

The rule book notes, "Now that you have read the rule book thoroughly, you know that the game calls for only one wild card and you have two in your deck. You have to take one out," Hartle said proudly.

"That's just one of the little jokes in our game."

Regular pinochle requires no wild card. "That's just one of the poker influences in the game," Duncan noted.

Another major difference from pinochle is that players are not dealt a hand; they draw their cards from the stack to fill their hands.

"The draw is one of the most frustrating things in the game since you must keep one card and throw one away and half the time you throw the wrong one away," Hartle said.

In the draw, a player takes the top card off the deck and must decide whether to keep it or throw it away. If he discards it, he takes and keeps the second card.

If he decides, before drawing the second card, that he wants to keep the first card, he must throw the second card away, but may look at it.

"That's murder," Duncan said, adding, "I can't tell you the number of times I have kept a king as the first card and then had to throw the wild card away when it came up as the second card."

As in poker, the wild card can be anything and wins any hand in which it is played, the exception being when it is led. "Any time the wild card is led, the player loses it," the rules decree.

"That can be frustrating, too," Duncan said, explaining, "When you have a few cards left and all of them are gone except the wild card, you have to try and give the lead away, before you play the wild card."

"I can't tell you the number of times I have been stuck with the lead to the last card and then given the wild card away by having to lead it."

"It just seems that sometimes when you have the wild card, you couldn't give the lead away if you led with a nine taped to a $10 bill," another "perennial Polish pinochle player" added.

"You can tell the ones who are 'hooked' on the game," Duncan said, explaining, "They even have a membership card."

The game comes with its own official membership card for perennial players.

Perennial is defined in the dictionary as lasting for an indefinitely long time, or "having a life cycle lasting more than two years," as in the case of plants.

"That fits," Hartle said, adding, "I don't know if anyone could stand much more than two years of playing Polish pinochle."

"I have been playing about that long and look what has happened to me," he emphasized, making an outrageous face.

The game is sold through Post Office Box 1303, Granite City, and the $4.95 price includes postage and handling.

Duncan said he and Hartle are trying to have the game distributed through stores, at which time he hopes the price will decrease because of greater volume. About 2,000 of the games have been sold thus far through the postal box, he said.

Duncan noted that the game can be played by any number of people from two to six.

The rules book lists several names for each game, such as "Polish pinochle with five people, or five-handed cutthroat Polish Pinochle, or five handed partners' Polish pinochle, or three against two or two against three, or four against one Polish pinochle."

The rules for six people conclude, "With six people or six-handed cutthroat Polish pinochle, or six handed partners' Polish pinochle, or (You know all this by now)."

Approve insurance bills

Insurance bills for the Chouteau Township Highway Department totaling about $4,000 were approved for payment by the Chouteau Township Board of Auditors during the board's regular meeting Monday night.

The bills include liability insurance, workmen's compensation, and insurance on the township's garage and equipment for one year.

Other bills paid by the board included $4,114 from the road and bridge accounts, $1,481 from the town fund and $1,200 from general assistance.

Approval also was given for extending the surety bond of Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks one year at a cost of $250.

Representatives Melvin P. S. and Paul Finley in response to a township resolution supporting the continuation of the federal revenue sharing program. Both congressmen pledged to support the revenue sharing program.

Copies of the 1976 Township Officials' Guide were distributed to each member.

Auditor Wilfred "Bud" Eberhardt was unable to attend the meeting. He has been hospitalized with an illness, it was reported.

Driver hurt

Stanley Strum, 32, of Rural Route Two, Box 723, was seriously injured when his auto went out of control and struck a utility pole on Route 203 at Oldenberg Road, north of Interstate 270, at 9:10 p.m. Monday.

The impact broke the utility pole and dented power lines, leaving much of the hardwood area without power until repairs could be made.

Strum was taken unconscious by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was treated for a large cut on his forehead, abrasions to his forehead, nose, right elbow, right lower leg and left knee.

A series of x-rays was taken here and he was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

Second Nameoki police unit seeks sanction

Residents of Nameoki Township immediately north of the Granite City limits are being asked if they would be willing to help support a volunteer police department to provide additional protection in the areas of Nameoki Township precincts three, five and 11.

About six volunteers have completed necessary training under Madison County Sheriff John Maeras and have been appointed as "supervisors of safety," which qualifies them to assist sheriff's deputies in many areas, including the halting of a crime in progress.

The volunteers have obtained a not-for-profit corporation charter from the state and are attempting to establish a department similar to the special police unit 33A established recently in the State Park area.

The charter, issued to Terrell E. Nichols, Steve Szadzi and Joseph J. Garcia, names the department the Nameoki Volunteer Police Department with a temporary address at Nichols' home, 2132 Miracle Ave. Since the Nameoki Town Board offered a grant to the State Park police unit to purchase a squad car, radios, uniforms and other necessities, the group has requested similar funding from that board.

Nameoki Township Supervisor Louis Whitsell requested at Monday night's Nameoki Town Board meeting that the auditors give serious consideration to the request when preparing the township budget for next year. He suggested federal revenue sharing funds be used to fund the department, the same as was done with State Park. Whitsell previously asked the proposed new police group to display how it could support itself financially, if the township would offer it a grant to get started.

That request started a door-to-door drive in which the police volunteers are asking residents to pledge an annual contribution to the department.

Whitsell said he feels the department will have "a very difficult job" showing it could be supported by volunteer contributions, but said the town board does not feel it "should issue a grant for a non-profit organization that will fall apart."

The proposed boundaries would extend from the Chain of Rocks Canal east to the Alton & Southern Railroad tracks near Pontoon Beach with the northern boundaries ending at the Nameoki-Chouteau township dividing lines.

$850 TOOL THEFT

Two trays of tools, valued at a total of about $850, were stolen from the pickup truck of Ronald Blanton, 2648 E. 27th St., parked at his home, it was reported this week.

Madison council backs zoning law enforcement

The Madison City Council at its Tuesday night meeting reaffirmed its intention to support and enforce the city's housing and zoning codes.

A delegation of eight persons at the Jan. 13 meeting of the council accused Mayor Mike Sasyk and John Dutko, building inspector, of violating constitutional rights in a dispute over the fitness of an apartment in a building to be occupied.

Fifth Ward Alderman Donald Garrett said, "I want to publicly compliment John Dutko and Mayor Sasyk in sticking to their guns in enforcement of the housing and zoning ordinances. We want to upgrade the living conditions in this city and we need to do just what we are doing, and that is to require adequate housing for all our people here."

The city council concurred with the two aldermen.

The City Council passed a resolution, requiring by law, that will allow the clerk of the City of St. Louis to release $14,300 in seized toll bridge money which has been held in escrow since 1967.

Mayor Sasyk explained that in 1967 the State of Missouri told Madison to stop collecting tolls on the bridge, Madison-owned Chain of Rocks. The city refused. St. Louis authorities went to toll offices on the Missouri side of the river, and seized the toll collections on hand.

The money has been held since with numerous legal battles over the years, according to the mayor, who said, "I'm glad we are finally getting this settled. We couldn't take it away from them (St. Louis) 'cause they have a heck of a lot more police than we did."

"Speaking about the bridge, representatives of the purchasers will want to meet with us. They have a study underway to find out if the bridge could be put to any other use than tearing it down. I told them that any extension of time on our agreement would be up to the council, so we will be meeting with the purchaser or representatives probably next Tuesday to discuss it," Sasyk said.

The council was informed by the city's corporation counsel that the City of Madison can convey land without bids to a school district. The school district needs only to adopt a resolution declaring that the property is necessary or convenient for it to use, and to mention the price it is willing to pay.

The city is selling 10 acres of land at the Maeras Industrial Park to the board for $100,000 for the building of a new middle school.

City Clerk John Bellefleur read a letter from Edward P. Schenk, executive director of the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission (EOC) regarding equipment taken by EOC from the Day Care Center formerly housed in the West Madison Recreation Center during the past two years. Schenk said he feels that a mutually agreeable solution could be found.

The dispute involves several items valued at $3,700 removed by the EOC that, according to the mayor, belongs to the city under a lease agreement of both parties.

The City Council at its last meeting instructed the legal department to begin suit in the courts.

According to Schenk the EOC board was to meet Wednesday. "We'll wait to see what they have to say," Mayor Sasyk said. Bellefleur also read a letter from United States Senator Charles E. Percy who informed Mayor Sasyk that the senator believes the federal revenue sharing program will be renewed until 1982.

Lyman Tucker, 61, succumbs

Lyman E. Tucker, 61, of 2546 Hodges Ave., ill for one year died at 1:20 p.m. Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mr. Tucker was employed 42 years as a security guard at the Boise Cascade Composite Can Division in Bridgeton, Mo.

He was a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mary Tucker; one daughter, Mrs. Clayton (Marla) Erickson of St. Louis; four brothers, Ted Tucker of Granite City, Carl Tucker, Webster Groves, Jack Tucker, Bakerfield, Calif., and Leon Tucker, Mountain View, Ark.; two sisters, Mrs. Thomas (Lucille) Martin of Granite City and Mrs. Henry (Helen) Alt of Beaufort, S.C.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Autopsy held

An autopsy conducted Monday on the body of Kevin Beck, 16, of 1929 Rhodes St., Madison, showed signs of drugs in his stomach and laboratory analysis of blood and fluid samples have been ordered, investigating officers noted this week.

Mr. Beck was found in a semi-conscious condition in the bathroom of his mother's home, 803 Kirkpatrick Homes, by his brother, Kendall, 20, according to reports.

Kendall said he took his brother to a bedroom where he went into seizures about 10 minutes later and an ambulance was called.

Kevin Beck died at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 9:48 p.m. Sunday. He was buried yesterday in St. John's cemetery, where he had been employed one and one-half years.

Police have talked to family members and Mr. Beck's friends who reported he had been despondent lately. The investigation is continuing, officers said.

Former resident shot fatally

John Krismanich, 35, of Hayward, Calif., formerly of the Quad Cities, died at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at a hospital in Hayward of an apparent gunshot wound, according to relatives. Details of the incident were not available.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Louise Zatk of Kingman, Ariz.; a stepfather George Williams of Hayward and an aunt, Mrs. William Wedner of Venice.

Funeral arrangements are pending in Hayward.

7 school board, 2 college board posts to be decided

Quad-City area voters will elect Board of Education members in Granite City, Venice and Madison in elections April 10, and at the same time will ballot on two members of the Belleville Area College board.

Voters will elect two board members in Venice District 3, two in Granite City District 9 and three in Madison District 12.

Petitions of candidacy now are available for these wishing to run for two seats on the Belleville Area College board. Terms expiring are those of Ted Gundlach and Milton Smith, both of Belleville. The seats are at-large, meaning that anyone in the Belleville Area College district may apply. The district includes the Quad-City area.

Petitions may be obtained at the present time from Mrs. Ruth M. Kromb, board secretary, at the Belleville Area College offices, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville, during business hours, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Candidates may file petitions with Mrs. Kromb, or her designate from 8:30 a.m. Feb. 25 through 4 p.m. March 19, at that address.

Holdover board members are Curt Eckert, Edwin F. O'Malley and Martha L. Sauer, all of Belleville; John Becker of Sparta and Mearl J. Justus of Cahokia.

In the Granite City District, two board posts will be subject to election, those of Norman Hall and Carl Macios. Holdover members of the Granite City board are George Moore, Sr., president, Harold Davis, secretary; Donald Stucke, treasurer; Thomas Mofsky and L. Monroe Worthen.

Hall and Macios are both "rural" board members, which means that at least one rural member must be elected in the April 10 balloting. There must be at least two rural board members at all times. Harold Davis, who does not run this year, is from the rural area. Therefore one rural member must be elected this year to provide the two required members from rural areas.

Venice board terms that expire this year are those of Richard Bailey, now board secretary, and Mrs. Jackie Leatherman. Other members of the Venice board who do not run this year are Jack Tolliver, president; Elmer Taylor, William Fichte, John Boushara and Charles Burger Jr.

Madison District 12 is the only Quad-City area district that will elect three members in the April 10 balloting. Terms expiring include those of Chester McLanaway, board secretary; Harold Fisk, president, and Donald Boyer. The four Madison board members who do not run this year are Willie Walker, Frank Evans, Elvers Johnson and David Miskelly.

Filing in all instances will open Feb. 25, with petitions of candidacy to be filed with the secretary's office in the respective districts. The last day for filing will be March 19, followed by a four-day withdrawal period in which candidates may drop out of the election if they desire to do so.

Petitions of candidacy are available at the board offices of all school districts.

In Granite City, candidates may begin filing at 8:30 a.m. on Feb. 25. Board Secretary Harold Davis will be on hand at the board office from 8:30 a.m. until 9:30 a.m. on the first day of filing. Petitions may be filed thereafter with Martha Rochester at the board office from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Candidates in the Venice district may file petitions with the office of the superintendent during the filing period.

The superintendent's office at Madison will accept candidates' petitions from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. daily.

The similar filing hours at all three local district offices results from changes in school election laws which now specify daily filing hours from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in all school districts. Candidates may be 18 years of age this year instead of the previously prescribed 21. All voters must be registered to vote.

Registrations with the county clerk will close Feb. 16 for the Democratic and Republican primary elections on March 16, but will be reopened March 18 for new registrations for the school elections. A qualified voter may register as late as the date of the election.

Increase in fire losses

Fire losses in Granite City during 1975 rose to $433,235, an increase of $128,285, or 42 percent, over those of the previous year. Fire Chief Don Parente reported to the City Council Monday night.

Parente reported that loss by fire increased for buildings and for contents, but decreased in damage to vehicles. While the report did not contain a per capita cost computation, last year's loss based on the 1970 census figure of 40,440 would amount to $10.71 per capita. The 1974 per capita fire loss was $7.31 on the basis of a total fire loss of $304,950.

Parente's report listed 721 calls for all purposes during the 1975 year, up from 677 calls during 1974.

While the Fire Department responded last year to 266 calls to fires in buildings, 20 less than the 286 such calls recorded in 1974, the fire loss to buildings and contents totaled $271,410 during 1975, up $106,265, or 64.9 percent, the report shows.

Losses to contents in building fires last year totaled $124,830, an increase of $34,335, or 38.2 percent, over the $90,295 such losses in 1974, according to the report.

None of the losses listed in the report included those in industrial plants, Parente said. Estimated loss to vehicles as the result of fires was $36,965 last year, Parente reported, compared to a loss of $50,110 in vehicle fires in 1974. Fires responded to 127 calls for vehicle fires last year, compared to 122 calls in 1974.

Fire drills and inspections were made in all the public and parochial schools. Numerous demonstrations and talks on fire safety were given at various civic and school organizations. Familiarization tours for fire safety were also made at many industrial plants and commercial complexes.

"Five officers attended a 12-week course at Belleville Area College and completed a course as basic fire instructors and were certified by the state of Illinois."

pared with 122 such calls the previous year, the report said. The report said the department made 116 calls for rubbish and weed fires, up from 106 in 1974; 15 inhalator calls compared with 19 the previous year, and 63 false alarms, compared with 57 in 1974. There was a total of 126 other calls, including rescue and industrial fires, compared with 94 the previous year.

Parente told the Press-Record that last year's increase in fire loss resulted primarily from the Dorian Bridal Shop fire in the downtown area in August last year, resulting in a building and contents loss of $75,000, and the destruction of two homes and damage to two others on Benton Street at a loss of $50,000.

Parente told the council: "We made eight out-of-town and mutual aid calls with no estimate of loss."

"Besides the above fire calls, firemen inspected and checked the galleage flow and pressure of all of the city's fire hydrants."

"Fire drills and inspections were made in all the public and parochial schools. Numerous demonstrations and talks on fire safety were given at various civic and school organizations. Familiarization tours for fire safety were also made at many industrial plants and commercial complexes."

"Five officers attended a 12-week course at Belleville Area College and completed a course as basic fire instructors and were certified by the state of Illinois."

Update to begin Madison survey

Representatives of "Update", a Greenville firm of urban planners, will meet with Madison businessmen individually on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, according to Mayor Mike Sasyk.

Sasyk made the announcement at the Tuesday night meeting of the Madison City Council.

The council authorized Mayor Sasyk and the council's Finance Committee several months ago to enter into an agreement with the firm for a remodeling and modernizing study of the city's businesses.

Businessmen are being contacted by Frank Papa, administrative assistant to the mayor, to arrange appointments between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. with the designers and architects to discuss theme ideas and improvements on an individual basis.

Allen W. Johnson, president of the Update firm, in a presentation to the Madison Venice Rotary club in February 1975, when the hiring of the firm was first being studied, said: "Most merchants who have followed development suggestions by Update have experienced an increase in sales of at least 21 per cent."

The Update representatives hold both formal and informal meetings with the merchants. They use what they call a "squatters technique." When their services are wanted the firm moves into the community and sets up an office for a few days so that it can communicate face to face with the business people and city officials.

The company will use the Madison Fire Hall above the fire station at 1527 Third St. According to the firm, there are two areas an individual store presents. One is the first story of a building, what the person sees as he's walking and the second is the top part of the building that is seen as a potential customer is driving into an area.

"The first story of a building needs to be attractive to the pedestrian as the people driving in can't see the first story well. When a person drives into an area they see the second story. Frequently the second floor is unattended and with the right color scheme, a little paint can bring out the real beauty of a many older buildings," Johnson said.

The cost to the merchants for the firm's help in designing and making recommendations for improvements is based at $8 per front foot, with a 25-foot maximum charge.

In the past two years several Illinois cities have used the firm's planning designs, including Pontiac, Taylorville, Bloomington and Woodstock.

WOMAN IS INJURED Miss Donna Horstman, 20, Collinsville, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital early this week after being injured in an auto accident near Collinsville.

She suffered abrasions to her forehead, chin and nose and a cut to her right knee. A series of x-rays was taken and she was released.

Help for parents of teen-agers

ROBERT BETTS

Does this title sound a responsive chord? If so, well-come to the club of confused parents — and be comforted as well as enlightened.

Many are the books offering tips on how to cope with teen-agers. This book has much more in the way of sympathy, understanding, warmth and humor. For the worried parent who wonders where things went wrong, there's consolation in the assurance that the first parent who won't have trouble over a teen-ager has yet to be born.

Most family problems don't happen in problem families, the author points out. They happen to parents who love and care for their children, and to kids who are fundamentally good.

His book is for such families. It is written in the spirit of "preventive maintenance," but it also is full of suggestions for dealing with parent-teen-ager conflicts and with crisis situations.

Paine calls on wide experience as a youth and family counselor to show the kind of circumstances and events that make for parent-teen-ager crises, how they can be prevented and, when not caught in time, how they can be dealt with.

He familiarizes parents with the teen-agers' world of the mid-1970s. He covers the broad range of teen-age experience: long hair, "weird" clothes, language, sex, food, study, values. In treating these and such serious subjects as drugs, pregnancy, running away and attempted suicide, he demonstrates an uncommon capacity for seeing problems from both the parents' and the teen-agers' points of view.

He says his book is mostly "a book about common sense, but one thing I've noticed about common sense is that it's pretty uncommon in a crisis. The common sense solution is always the one we think of later, looking back on what we actually did."

Parents who have come through crisis situations, perhaps a little wiser than they were before, will nod their heads to that, as they may to some other of Paine's observations.

In a chapter titled "Getting Through," he comments: "Many parents have found that the main problem they have is not that they can't communicate, but that they communicate only too well; they understand their kids perfectly and disagree with them totally. At bottom, it is a basic difference of opinion about what is right and what is wrong."

He's not out merely to make a case for teen-agers. He's concerned about human beings, the members who make up a family. Although his book is addressed to parents, he believes there is much in it "that will be both interesting and profitable to teen-agers."

Tickets going fast for Mayor's Ball

Ticket sales are exceeding expectations for the Granite City Mayor's Ball to be held Sunday at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, presented by the Granite City Bicentennial Commission.

GC Fire Chief Don Parente, who is in charge of ticket sales for the event, said this week that nearly 750 tickets have been sold and more are expected to be sold later this week and at the door.

The event will be held in Meridian Hall on the SIU campus, beginning at 8 p.m. Sunday. Hors D'Oeuvres will be served. Music will be by the Joey James Band.

The event, honoring Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City and starting the commission's Bicentennial year activities, will conclude at 10 p.m.

Parente said informal dress will be acceptable with most men expected to be wearing suits or leisure suits and the women wearing long dresses.

Seek foster homes

Homes for teens is one of the most pressing needs of the community, according to Mary Fowell, regional director of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society.

The society, a member agency of the United Way, is seeking foster families who can take three to five teens. The agency has found that living in a small group is welcomed by teens and works well for foster parents too, she said.

Teens who need homes are boys and girls, ages 11 to 18, without parents and relatives able to support and guide them. Many have been marking time in temporary places and institutions where they have no roots, the director said. Most are mixed-up and scared; some are angry at what has happened to them; some distrust adults. All need to be part of a family with foster parents who enjoy kids, like a challenge, and want the satisfaction of helping a youngster find himself and toward responsible adulthood, she added.

The Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society is a private child welfare agency committed to investing the time and professional skills needed to help teens progress. It works closely with foster parents. The agency pays for board, clothing, and medical care.

Interested families may call the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society (462-2714) or write to the Regional Office, 1002 College Ave., Alton.

EPA warns private dump is illegal

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency Tuesday warned the Illini Sand Co., operator of a private dump at 800 N. Front St., East St. Louis, and persons leaving refuse there that they are in violation of environmental law and are endangering public health.

John S. Moore, manager of the Illinois EPA's Division of Land Pollution Control, said the Front Street site does not have a permit to operate, which is illegal.

"It is also illegal for anyone to use the site," Moore said. "We have no way of knowing if the site is being operated in an environmentally safe manner."

Moore said illegally-operated dumps often serve as a breeding ground for rats and threaten pollution of streams, rivers, and groundwater.

Licensed, approved landfills in the area include the M-I-Milan Landfill, located just east of East St. Louis at the junction of Interstate highway 70-55 and Illinois route 203.

MHS secretary students hear helpful hints

Miss Twila Edmonds of the Tri-City Secretarial Association, and Mrs. Peggy Morris, secretary to the vice-president of the advisory board at St. Elizabeth Hospital, were guests of the Madison High School chapter of Future Secretaries of America at a meeting in the school typing room last week.

After a brief business meeting conducted by Regina London, president, the session was turned over to Anita Rogers, the group's vice-president who introduced Miss Edmonds.

Miss Edmonds made brief comments about the secretary and her work as it relates to law and malpractice cases.

Mrs. Morris related several points in the area of skill, determination, the part the secretary plays in her merit raises, making the boss look good without claiming all of the credit, and the types of jobs open to secretaries in a hospital.

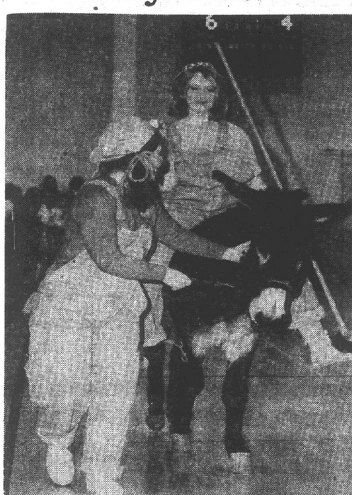

Mrs. Morris also pointed out the secretary as well all employees must show interest in the problems, complaints and needs of customers if any company is to be successful.

Donkey ball Wednesday at Venice

CLEAN UP CREW. an essential part of any Donkey Basketball contest, arrives on the scene at a recent game. Two Junior Class girls will make up the sanitation crew at Wednesday night's 7:30 contest, matching the Venice faculty against the Venice Police Department at the Venice High School gymnasium. The public may obtain tickets in advance at the school, or at the door before game time.

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

The players' lateral movements aren't quite as fast as in a normal basketball game, but the up-and-down motions can set all-time records, according to veterans of previous donkey basketball games.

Plenty of hilarious action is anticipated at Venice High School gymnasium Wednesday evening when Venice teachers will compete against members of the Venice Police Department in a "Donkey Basketball" contest.

The public is invited to view the 7:30 show, and tickets may be obtained in advance of Wednesday at the school, or from members of the Junior Class and their faculty sponsors.

Advance tickets cost $1.25 for adults and $1 for students. Admission at the door Wednesday night will be $1.50 per adult and $1.25 for each student.

The competing teams have been designated the "Jackassstronauts," consisting of police department members, and the "Tailwalkers," made up of the Venice faculty.

Mounts already have been assigned the teams, it was learned.

Although the nature of the beast is relatively unknown, there is one exception—"Honey Pot." Billed as the "world's buckin'est donkey," the veteran animal has been assigned to the Venice Police Department for the first half of play.

The officers, considered to be more "rough and ready" than their opponents, also will be mounted on Thunder Ball, Snuffy and Kilroy.

The more "select" group of equestrians (teachers) has drawn such animals as Rigor Mortis, Beagle Bomb, Super Stupid and Elvis.

As enthusiastic supporters of the Venice Red Devils, the 1975 Illinois Class A state basketball champions, the Venice fans are well-versed in rules of the sport. Spectators at Wednesday night's game, however, may have some difficulty following the plays and understanding the conduct requirements which dominate donkey basketball.

Briefly, there are no such infractions as fouls or out-of-bounds calls. Time-outs are only permitted in the event of a dire emergency.

Players may not mount their donkeys until formally introduced and must wait until the referee blows the whistle before the attempt to mount is made.

Players must be mounted to shoot, steal a ball or block passes and shots.

No one may pull another player from his donkey and must not pull the hair, ears and tails of a donkey or each other.

Unlimited substitutions are allowed and teammates can trade donkeys at any time. When passing the ball between players, one or the other must be mounted.

No player may keep an animal for more than one period of play and teams must trade sets of donkeys and baskets at the half.

Players are advised to wear football helmets and any other available padding that isn't already built in and to stay off the rear end of the animal at all times.

Many fans of the donkey basketball game believe the animals are the true stars of the show.

The donkeys, usually, are talented and sports-minded animals, the owner reported. They know their way around a basketball court.

The animals in Wednesday night's game at Venice High School are being provided by the Buckeye Donkey Ball Co. of Columbus, Ohio.

The teams are chosen, the battle lines are drawn and the donkeys are ready to go, all we need is a full house at the Venice gym, members of the Junior Class said this week.

PTA Council awards banquet Feb. 26

The Granite City Area PTA Council finalized plans for its annual awards banquet during a meeting held at Stallings School last week. Mrs. Dorothy Phelps, president, presided.

Tickets costing $6 per person are now available for the awards dinner, set for 6:15 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 26, at South High School.

Registration will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Reservations may be made through Feb. 18 with Mrs. Julie Gates, 2150 Harrison Ave.

The cultural arts committee announced plans for a concert for third grade pupils in early March to acquaint the children with various musical instruments.

Named to serve on a nominating committee to select 1976-77 officers were: Brenda Withers, Lake School; Art Menendez, Mitchell; Julie Gates, Maryville; Dorothy Baker, Wilson; Ruth Jorgensen, Stallings.

Mrs. Mary Lou Hudson, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Gates and Mrs. Barbara Haddock have completed the basic PTA course, it was announced.

Program for the evening, "Value Clarification," was given by John Mullens of Griggby Junior High School and Jane Sears from South High School.

The speakers said among teenagers between 14 to 18 years of age, who are living at home and attending school, about 26 per cent are experimenting with drugs. From this percentage 29 per cent are using marijuana. If alcohol is included, the figures then jump to 75 per cent, the educators said.

Mrs. Phelps said the March 25 meeting will be held at Mitchell School. The program will focus on Communication Between Parents and Students.

60 at senior club installation

Sixty members of the More The Merrier Senior Citizens Club attended the annual installation of officers and potluck dinner held at the Senior Citizens Center last week.

Mrs. Ruby Corbett served as the installing officer. The 1976 corps of officers includes: John Winklemeyer, president; Mrs. Emma Goble, vice-president; Mrs. Della Rabb, treasurer; and Mrs. Corbett, Chaplain.

Guests present were Dan Partney, William Johnson, Louis Whitwell and Norman Kinder.

Games were played after the meeting and musical entertainment was provided.

The next meeting will be at noon Feb. 12 at the center.

Ambulance

service in the area. He contended there is no justification for "three ambulances operating three and two employees for each, when the number of ambulances runs 30 or more makes has been cut in half."

"When we were the only emergency ambulance service in town, we were making 4,000 trips a year. Recently, we have been making about 2,000 trips, on a yearly basis."

"I just do not make sense to pay, the high cost of malpractice insurance—the same insurance the doctors carry—and to pay collision and liability insurance on two ambulances that are just sitting there," Mercer said.

He added that he is reducing the Mercer Ambulance staff in line with the ambulance cut-back, but is not sure how many employees will be affected. "We are going to try to find them other jobs in the funeral home or elsewhere," he mentioned.

Between the insurance, the employees and the investment in equipment for the ambulances, he said, "The real cost of having an ambulance is incurred when it is just sitting there, not when it is on a run."

Mercer said he wrote the letter to the industries "only to let them know that, when they call for an ambulance, there may be times when one is not available. I wanted to warn them so they could look for other means."

The Thomas spokesman said several of the larger industries have contacted him since receiving the letter, asking if adequate service is available from Thomas.

"We have assured them it is and we will accept their calls. But I don't know how many other industries we can guarantee to serve, unless we get at least one more ambulance," the Thomas spokesman added.

"We will not turn down anyone for ambulance service and will always respond with two men in each ambulance to give the best care available," he said.

Mercer said he has not made plans to sell either of the ambulances being discontinued, but he is discontinuing insurance on them.

"They will remain available and in working order until I decide what to do with them or sell them," he said, adding, "There are a lot of unknowns here."

He plans to meet with Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer in the near future to discuss the issue.

Under state law, the county is responsible for seeing that everyone in the county has adequate ambulance service. A city may, if it wishes, take that responsibility and assume it on the city level.

Mercer cited Edwardsville and Collinsville, where the fire departments operate ambulances, and Highland, where police offer the service, as examples of the direction ambulance service is taking.

"The Highway Safety Act of 1966 set the kinds of ambulances the government wants on the streets. The state has prepared standard ordinances for cities to pass, dictating the equipment which should be required on ambulances."

"Although most of these requirements never came to pass, we equipped our ambulances with all of these things while some funeral homes in the state said they could not afford it and threatened to stop the emergency ambulance business."

"All of this equipment is expensive and we have it while others do not. I feel we should get an ambulance service that will give equal service to all people in the Quad-Cities," Mercer asserted.

He said it is not necessary for police or firemen to operate a tax-assisted ambulance service.

"In Wood River, two ambulances contract with the Township Hospital to furnish trained people. In each ambulance is a driver, hired by the ambulance firm, and in the back is a nurse or attendant, furnished by the hospital," he noted.

"We are moving toward this kind of a system," Mercer predicted.

He said he feels the Granite City Fire Department has the best geographic layout of the railroad tracks which separate Granite City from West Granite City. But private firms could supply adequate ambulance service here if assisted by cities, the county or hospitals, he added.

Text of the ambulance proposal of Quad-Cities Mayor and St. Elizabeth Hospital in June 1976 follows:

"The federal Transportation Department Highway Safety Act established specific specifications for the type of equipment and material to be used and for the training of personnel required to furnish adequate ambulance service for the community.

"Traditional ambulance service which provides transportation of a patient to a medical care facility has been provided in this area by the funeral directors since the days of the horse-drawn carriages.

"Modern techniques in the handling and care of the people on route to a medical care facility can increase greatly their chances for a full recovery and remove much pain and trauma which could have occurred under the traditional ambulance services.

"When the state of Illinois seriously considered adopting the federal specifications about four years ago, the funeral directors of this area were faced with the problem of converting to the proposed modern techniques or to go out of the ambulance service business.

"The proposed statutes which gave private ambulance operators were not enacted. "As a result, ambulance services in the Quad-Cities in this date have not been directed to meet the stringent requirements of the Highway Safety Act."

"We feel that the requirements of the Highway Safety Act are valid and necessary for the proper care in transporting individuals of all ages to medical care facilities."

"It has been proven to be economically unfeasible for private enterprise to operate an ambulance service that meets federal specifications. Therefore, the funeral directors of the Quad-Cities do eliminate their current ambulance service."

"It is recommended that by Oct. 1, 1976:

"A. The local municipalities establish an emergency ambulance service.

"B. St. Elizabeth Hospital provide emergency transfer capabilities to meet its own needs for emergencies, and a convalescent transportation service for the area."

"The funeral directors operating ambulance services now offer to sell to the local governments and/or hospital the trauma equipment presently in service before offering to any other buyer. The selling price will be less than the highest bonafide offer."

Theta Iota plans events

Theta Iota Chapter members discussed several coming events at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Candy Thompson on Sunday.

The group made plans to tour a St. Louis radio station, with their families in February and received tickets for the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's Valentine dance set for Feb. 14 at Collinsville Holiday Inn.

The event is open to the public and tickets may be purchased from any chapter member. The state is reported to be describing the dance will be placed in area business establishments.

A pass, dictating the equipment which should be required on ambulances.

"Although most of these requirements never came to pass, we equipped our ambulances with all of these things while some funeral homes in the state said they could not afford it and threatened to stop the emergency ambulance business."

After the guest of honor opened her gift a buffet luncheon was served by the hostesses to Mesdames Sandy Blanton and daughter, Michelle, Rose Scaturro and daughter, Lisa, Linda Kuebel and daughter, Connie and Dawn, Carol Lynn Carter and children, Sherry and Joe, Malvina Patterson, Linda Knackstedt, Jill, Millie Roderick, Ruth McClell, Pat Bailey, Ann Ruder, Pauline Bausch, Roseann Blanton, Martha St. Ivany, Ann Blanton, LaVerne Blanton, Maribeth Kollerhouse, Pat Carler, Donna Badgett and son, David, Ranetta Siler, and Misses Pam, LaDon Blanton, Christy Knackstedt, Mary Cavins, Debbie Lindner and Diane Blanton.

Couple robbed on restaurant lot

A man and a woman were robbed as they were getting into their car on the parking lot of the Restaurant, Madison Avenue and Namek Road, at 11:30 p.m. yesterday.

Both got into the auto and reported. The man opened the car, opened the passenger side door, displayed a small caliber revolver and ordered, "Don't move or I'll blow your head off. I want your wallet and rings. Right now!"

Nolan gave the robber a ring and his wallet containing $55 cash. Gay Lawrence gave him two rings and her wallet, containing $25.

The robber then ordered both to get back into the lounge and not to look back. As they returned to the lounge, the robber repeated orders for them not to look back.

As they got to the lounge door, the robber got into a car parked beside Nolan's auto, where another man was waiting for them. They drove south on Madison Avenue.

The robber's car was described as a two-door hardtop Pontiac Firebird or Chevrolet Camaro with red stripes on the rear.

The victims described the robber as about 5 feet, 7 inches tall, thin, having brown eyes and black hair and being about 25 to 30 years of age. He wore a dark jacket and a green stocking cap.

Two park employees resign

Two full-time employees of the Granite City Park District resigned last night during a meeting of the Park Board at the Wilson Park office.

Michael "Mike" Jesse, an employee of the park district here since 1962 who held a position as director of recreation, cited his reason for leaving as securing employment in the Business Sales Division of Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., St. Louis.

William "Bill" Rollins, an employee of the park district for the past seven years who held a position as maintenance director of parks, told the park board he is returning to college to seek a degree in conservation.

Plans are indefinite as to who will fill the positions vacated by Jesse and Rollins.

Jesse, who lives with his wife, Sandra, and two children at 34 Wilson Park Drive, joined the park district as a swimming instructor. He later became manager of the Wilson Park swimming pool and then athletic director before assuming the position of director of recreation.

Rollins, who lives with his wife, Susan, at 205 Namek Drive, was a building supervisor and maintenance director of parks here.

Both men told the board they were proud to have served the park district and the citizens of the community.

BOY, IS INJURED. James Ficke, 15, East St. Louis, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 7:10 p.m. Monday after he was injured in a truck accident. He was a passenger in the truck and struck the right side of his head. He had contusions to his head and x-rays were taken.

While police were at the scene, they were told two vehicles on the parking lot had been broken into. A third report of a vehicle break-in was made 45 minutes later.

John Reeling, St. Louis, said

Calls to Ricco's II include gun incident

Granite City police were called several times to the Ricco's II Lounge, 3675 Namek Road, early this morning for several incidents. In one incident, a group of patrons removed a gun from a security guard and tried to fire it, witnesses alleged.

Three vehicles in the lounge's parking area were broken into and looted and another was stolen during the evening or early morning.

Police were called to the lounge at 1:10 a.m. today to investigate reports of vehicles having been broken into and a report that a dozen young men were standing in the parking lot throwing bottles at the front door of the lounge.

By the time officers arrived, all had gotten into cars on the parking lot. Several were questioned, including a bartender who reported there had been a disturbance inside.

The bartender said that at 1 a.m. customers were told they had to leave because the lounge was closing. Several persons objected.

A disturbance started, during which a group succeeded in removing the revolver of a security guard.

Police were told that the gun had to be fired when another employee stuck his thumb between the cocked hammer and the gun's frame, preventing it from firing.

It could not be determined if the gun was aimed at someone when it nearly fired, authorities said.

The patrons were forced to leave the lounge and the doors were locked. The bartender reported; a group of about 12 remained on the lot, throwing bottles at the door.

Since all were in their cars when police arrived, officers were unable to find sufficient evidence to charge any of those involved.

While police were at the scene, they were told two vehicles on the parking lot had been broken into. A third report of a vehicle break-in was made 45 minutes later.

John Reeling, St. Louis, said

the left vent window of his auto had been broken and a $38 cooler and seven tape recordings worth about $56 were stolen.

Alan Townsend, St. Louis, said his van had been unlocked and about 10 tape recordings worth $70 were taken. A wire was believed used to unlock the door.

A third report was received from Bob Winghamer, Arnold, Mo., who said a vent window of his van had been pried open and a $200 stereo and about 24 tape recordings in a case had been stolen. The tapes were valued at about $130, he said.

The incidents followed a report at 11:30 p.m. Wednesday from James Farley Jr., 3925 Gaslight Walk, Apt. 1, that his car had been stolen from the parking lot between Ricco's II and the Namek Cinema. It is a black 1973 Oldsmobile Cutlass two-door car with a dented front fender, he reported.

Police prepared reports on all of the overnight incidents at and near the lounge and the reports were to be taken today. A previous order to permanently close the lounge is being appealed to the state Liquor Control Commission.

Schuler will be asked to decide if there is sufficient evidence to order the lounge closed for a period of time. A previous order to permanently close the lounge is being appealed to the state Liquor Control Commission.

Since the first license revocation order, the lounge is believed to have hired licensed security guards who carry guns in the lounge. Formerly,ouncers carrying heavy flashlights were used to control disturbances.

SMOKE AT HOSPITAL. An overheated blower motor in the basement of St. Elizabeth Hospital at 7:40 p.m. Monday resulted in firemen spending 45 minutes there to clear smoke from the area. No fire resulted.

Columbia site ought not be lost; any future second-airport site is likely to be many more miles distant Illinoisans urging the establishment of a major new airport at Columbia-Waterloo believe they are supporting a proposal that would truly serve the best interests of the entire St. Louis region—Missouri as well as Illinois. Even groups like the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association and Downtown St. Louis, Inc., agree with them.

Regionalism is a concept receiving increasing emphasis from the federal government as well as many citizens. The airport issue is an example of how the regional approach could be given fuller meaning.

If no river or state boundary divided the existing portions of this metropolitan area, there is little doubt that the idea of a new airport would have advanced more rapidly, and much of the present opposition never would have materialized. Interestingly, the proposal received strong initial backing by Missourians, including Lawrence Ross as well as A. J. Cervantes.

The Federal Aviation Administration from its national vantage point has been presenting the facts of the situation for a number of years, and its well-documented recommendations deserve to be approved and implemented.

The truth is that Lambert Airport is hemmed in by surrounding residential, business and industrial property and cannot be adequately expanded or improved to fully serve the growing needs of the region and nation.

Site approval, master planning and land acquisition for a new airport should proceed, with Lambert retaining an active role during the construction phase and also continuing on as a busy, vitally-needed, ideally-located general airport to complement the new airport. Improved Lambert administration and less meddling by St. Louis city politicians in Lambert property and equipment decisions also would be helpful.

The need for a second airport was clearly shown in the late 1960s by the state of Illinois, St. Louis officials and the FAA.

State government revenue being depleted

By MAURICE W. SCOTT
Executive Vice President Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois

Whether or not the state's General Revenue Fund balance on July 1, 1976—the end of fiscal year 1975—is around $100 million depends on two factors. Those factors are: (1) further pickup or increase in the economy for the remaining six months of the fiscal year; and (2) curtailment of spending.

A comparison of receipts and expenditures for the first six months of fiscal 1976 with the same period for fiscal 1975 reveals the picture at the present time. According to statistics taken from the monthly fiscal reports of the state comptroller, total receipts into the General Revenue Fund for the first six months of fiscal 1976 were $2,484,000,000 compared to $2,394,000,000 for the same period for fiscal 1975. An increase of $90 million, or 3.8 per cent.

Comparing expenditures from this fund for the same periods, expenditures for the first six months of fiscal 1976 amounted to $2,797,000,000 while expenditures for the same period for fiscal 1975 were $2,427,000,000, an increase of $370 million, or 15.3 per cent.

Now, let us drop back a year and make similar comparisons.

For the first six months of fiscal 1975, total receipts into the General Revenue Fund were $2,394,000,000, compared to $2,011,000,000 for the same six months in fiscal 1974, a gain of $383 million, or 19.1 per cent.

On the other side of the ledger, expenditures for the same six months in fiscal 1975 were $2,427,000,000, an increase of $266 million, or 11.8 per cent.

The only reason that expenditures for this fund could exceed revenues for such comparison periods is that the fund had available balances to start the fiscal years.

That available balance on July 1, 1974, was $453 million; on July 1, 1975, it was $315 million; on July 1, 1976, it had slipped to around $12 million.

However, state income tax payments and Christmas sales tax receipts will increase the balance somewhat later on in the present fiscal year.

The first six-month figures for fiscal 1976 show that income tax receipts only increased 3.2 per cent over the first six months of fiscal 1975; for the same period of fiscal 1975, for the same comparison, sales tax receipts increased 7.8 per cent.

A year ago for the same period comparisons, fiscal 1975 income tax revenues increased 26.6 per cent over fiscal 1974, and sales tax receipts for the first six months of fiscal 1975 increased 11.8 per cent over fiscal 1974.

The budget to be presented by the governor on March 3, 1976, for 1976-77 will have to be a strict "hold the line" document. There will be little room for growth.

Then, when the legislature meets in 1977 and considers the budget for 1977-78, it will have a better reading on the economy as it considers the emergency programs for the state.

At this writing, the reins on spending must be held tightly.

lack of accountability, questionable tactics by enforcement group alleged Alton Telegraph—Gary F. Bossio, director of the Metropolitan Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEG for short), a multi-county drug squad that calls itself a "covert narcotics enforcement operation," MEG is a glossy operation which operates out of a secretive Wood River headquarters, drives shiny new Mercedes and answers to virtually no one.

At his periodic press conferences, Bossio stands in front of the television camera and brags about scores of drug arrests by his agents.

The conference is usually followed by praise from local citizens and laudatory editorials in area newspapers.

On the surface, MEG looks like the answer to all our problems with illegal drugs. But the drug squad, with its sleek Mercedes and its questionable tactics and lack of accountability, is a far cry from the bill of goods the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission sold us to establish MEG 18 months ago.

To understand this, look back at July 23, 1974, when John Fahnestock of ILEC told an assembled group of county police chiefs how MEG would solve the problem of drug enforcement.

"MEG is a covert narcotics enforcement operation. It is not out to become known publicly," Fahnestock said at the meeting.

Today, 18 months later, the director of the unit holds press conferences and seeks publicity with a style which would make P. T. Barnum proud.

Fahnestock said in 1974 the MEG unit would concentrate on arresting big-time pushers and distributors of narcotics. They would not be concerned with marijuana and smalltime peddlers.

In the 18 months since then, MEG has busted large numbers of grass users and pushers that most police departments are almost powerless to arrest.

Not one arrest, these policemen claim, has led them closer to the large-scale pushers, distributors or suppliers for the area.

"They're busting people that we've known about for years," one cop said. "None of these guys are very big."

According to one source close to the Madison County state's attorney's office, less than 25 per cent of MEG's arrests will hold up in court.

Most will be thrown out for lack of evidence, improper search and seizure or other problems. Many won't even be tried.

A large number of arrests, however, look good on statistics. Statistics are what you need to get next year's grant for operations.

MEG was funded originally for $200,000 a year by an ILEC grant. Their budget today is a secret.

Chicago and Cook County's MEG unit, the first in Illinois and the state's model for all other units, is cited repeatedly for violation of civil and individual rights of the persons they arrest.

Federal investigators are probing the investigative and arrest tactics of the Cook County squad as well as charges the squad agents are misusing funds set aside for drug buys. Locally, Jersey County refused to take part in the squad. St. Clair County followed suit after some police officials there called the unit's tactics "questionable."

Drug agents trying to infiltrate private drug counseling groups to get information on drug users seeking help.

"Hans, they're drug users who are straight, threatening them unless they come up with information."

"Entrapment of persons into selling drugs—a practice which lawyers say will result in most convictions tried out of court."

"Agents from MEG have contacted members of my counseling groups," says John Garrett, senior counselor for the Madison County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence. "I don't like it. I don't like it at all."

Almost all of MEG's investigative work is undercover, but their tactics reveal activities of federal drug agents who raided the homes of two Collinsville couples three years ago and terrorized them before learning they were in the wrong house.

Public reaction to those raids might have changed the federal operations and set narcotics enforcement back several years.

Today, after changes in the federal agencies, U. S. Senator Frank Church refers to the "Drug Enforcement Administration as an 'American Gestapo.'" and want to know what I said during the sessions. When I refused, they threaten to sue me up."

"I've been threatened by the agents from MEG," one former drug counselor who belongs to a drug counseling group said.

"They've demanded the names of those in my group."

One night, an agent was waiting for me in my apartment when I came home. They've even hassled my girlfriend, who said she had anything to do with drugs."

When the MEG agents tried to intimidate the student workers crew for the River Festival last summer, the workers were harassed by agents who demanded use of identifying worker T-shirts.

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's student government tried to get the university to recall its security force's contribution to the unit, but dropped the demand after pressure was applied.

MEG's organizational structure calls for each police department participating in the group to contribute one man. That department pays the salary for that man.

For example, ILEC grant pays for Bossio, maintaining a headquarters, a fleet of new, expensive Mercedes for the agents to drive in drug buys.

ILEC continues to fund the operation at present, using federal money. When the federal money runs out, however, the municipalities and counties must come up with the funds.

Either way, the taxpayers foot the bill. The current cost, however, could be minimal compared to the cost of legal hassles over actions of MEG agents.

A lawsuit for violation of civil rights, if a mentally competent individual wants to use his legally acquired money to be entertained in this manner, would be anyone else's problem, not MEG's.

Many forms of "entertainment" don't make much sense when analyzed dispassionately. All that is proved by the existence of Bicentennial souvenirs is that the business system remains quick and responsive to the needs and wants of the American people.

The business that offers unwelcome merchandise will eventually go out of business and that—not government regulation—is the most appropriate penalty.

Anybody who thinks otherwise has rocks in his head.

of directors consisting of police chiefs and county sheriffs from the area served. The board does not answer to any city, county or state governmental agency.

Their decisions, their expenditures and their operations remain a secret.

Bossio and MEG proponents don't tell us about their activities or the dangers involved when they hold their periodic press conferences. Likewise, the public did not know about the tactics of federal drug agents until it was almost too late.

Instead, we hear glowing promises about how the massive drug arrests will drastically reduce the overall crime rate because many crimes are related to drug use. Yet the area crime rate continues to rise, in spite of 18 months of MEG operation.

One cop feels any MEG tactics are justified. "We are fighting a serious problem," he says. "The drug pushers don't have to abide by the rules of the law. We have to fight them to break a few rules ourselves. This is a war, and we should be able to use any means possible to win."

If that kind of rationalization sounds familiar, go back to 1960, to a presidential candidate who said:

"We must have law and order. Crime is rising too rapidly and we are losing control of our cities and streets. We shall use all means at our disposal to establish and maintain law and order."

Richard Nixon—the man who used the CIA and FBI for political spying, established the CIA's "black" tactics of federal drug agents, and fathered Watergate—said that the day after he won election as president.

The more things change, the more they remain the same.

Secret pressures affect legislation

By JOHN GARDNER

Chairman, Common Cause. Imagine you were playing a game of checkers—playing to win.

Someone leans over your shoulder, puts a thumb on one checker and says, "Go ahead and play—just don't move this checker."

Then someone else leans over your other shoulder and puts a thumb on another checker. A third person immobilizes still another checker, then another. Soon, all thumbs; no moves.

Could you expect to win a game like that? Of course not! Yet, most Americans expect their senators and congressmen in Washington to solve the problems of the nation by playing a game like that.

Yet, most Americans expect their senators and congressmen in Washington to solve the problems of the nation by playing a game like that. In the struggle to find solutions to these grave problems, the restricting demands of special-interest groups. They do not really want to paralyze the nation's problem-solving efforts. Each just wants to immobilize one checker.

Each is simply looking after its own special interest—making sure that their financial gains are not affected, insuring that certain tax advantages will not be disturbed, guaranteeing that subsidies are maintained, etc. Collectively, they prevent any solution.

In real life you can't see whose thumbs are coming down on the checkerboard. You don't know what forces are making the game impossible to win. That's why citizens must step in and say, "Thumbs off!"

There is a dire need to return to all citizens their constitutionally-guaranteed right to have their voices heard in their own government.

Our country will never find equitable and meaningful answers to today's crippling problems until secret—and all too often corrupt—pressures of special interests are exposed to public view.

Since our inception in the fall of 1970, nearly 300,000 Americans have banded together in Common Cause. Our membership is made up of independents, Democrats and Republicans from all walks of life.

In the few years of our existence, we have scored such major victories as: making it harder for big-money operators to corner political influence and buy politicians.

In 1971, we sued both major parties for violating campaign financing laws, and our suit prodded Congress to pass a better law.

In 1972, we successfully sued the President to force disclosure of secret campaign contributions.

Among the gifts we forced out into the open were secret funds that had financed some of the most scandalous Watergate episodes.

Our activity laid the basis for Congress's enactment of campaign finance legislation in 1974.

—Opening up our government to let citizens know what their elected representatives are doing. For example, in 1973 we played a role in persuading the committee of the House of Representatives to reverse their long-standing habit of secrecy and to open up most of their bill-drafting sessions.

—Sparking the greatest wave of state legislative reform in the nation's history. In the past 2½ years, 46 out of 50 states have passed one or more "accountable government" reforms.

—Reforming Congress. We helped end the outmoded and tyrannical seniority system, and helped break the autocratic power of the House Ways and Means Committee, the committee which deals with taxes.

When three formerly entrenched committee chairmen were deposed, it made headlines. One, Representative Helms, openly blamed Congress for his ouster.

Political corruption, backroom fixes, secret deals—aside from their moral repulsiveness—create a government that just does not work.

If we, as a nation, are to survive our current crises, we must have a government that does work, a government not paralyzed by surreptitious pressures and arrangements.

The problems we face today are hardly less than in the best of circumstances. They become downright impossible to solve when the pressures and deals paralyze the whole machinery.

If we are ever to solve the grave problems our nation is facing, we must call a halt to the secret manipulations of policy by special-interest pressures.

Let us break the gridlock now, before it is too late.

The first person was a young man on foot, the next two were young men, one with a very small child.

The young people were between the ages, I believe, of 18 and 20 years. They were genuinely interested in being of assistance.

On my way home from church Sunday morning, Jan. 25, it was my misfortune at Felton Road to encounter a car that was suffering a flat tire—so flat that it was impossible to get to it by a service station.

Minutes later it was my good fortune to have two lovely young women stop and insist that they take me to my home. I was most grateful for their kindness and doubly so because the weather was cold and rainy.

That afternoon, I returned to my car to await service. While I was sitting there, three people stopped to ask if help could be given.

The first person was a young man on foot, the next two were young men, one with a very small child.

The young people were between the ages, I believe, of 18 and 20 years. They were genuinely interested in being of assistance.

I am expressing my gratitude to the young people for their assistance. There is a certain amount of criticism of the youth in our society.

Local young people friendly, helpful

Many will agree that the mistakes and crimes of a few get an undue amount of publicity and attention, while the good deeds of many young people go unrecorded.

I love my native state of Illinois and have lived in a number of her cities, but I wish to say that there is none like Granite City.

I find the people here the friendliest and warmest, with a degree of concern and caring that I have not found elsewhere.

Therefore, my first act of appreciation this Bicentennial year is to publicly express my thanks to Almighty God for our great country—with all her faults and for the people who live in it.

Granite City and the surrounding area, young and old, are the greatest. If you will permit me to add a few words, there is a certain amount of criticism of the youth in our society.

Moonspinners 4-H installs

New officers of the Moonspinners 4-H Club were installed in a candlelight ceremony conducted by the club advisor, Mrs. Elizabeth Schmidt, at the Nameki United Presbyterian Church.

A single white candle was lighted to designate club spirit and was used to light the new officers' candles, representing "head, heart, hands, health and club."

Those taking office included: Alice Childers, president; Jennifer Herman, vice-president; Maryann Colbert, secretary; Maria Schmidt, treasurer; and Kimberly Blankenship, recreation chairman.

Members recited the 4-H pledge and motto—"To Make the Best Better."

The president introduced three new members, Beth and Sharon Blankenship and Tami Palmer. Roll call was answered by naming a favorite food.

A demonstration was given by Maria Schmidt, "Making Chenille Octopus," followed by a game with Alice Childers receiving a prize.

Project books were distributed and plans were made to continue a candy sale. A past president's pin was presented to Maria Schmidt. The next meeting will be from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the church. Prospective members are welcome to attend, Mrs. Schmidt said.

Pack 46 plans annual banquet

"Tournaments" was the theme of the Cub Pack 46 meeting held at Nameki School last week. The program also featured a space derby with each boy entering a rocket he had painted.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 46 assisted with the race. Winners will be announced and awards presented at the blue and gold banquet in February at Coolidge Junior High School.

Ronald Coleman, acting cubmaster, awarded the following merit badges: Wolf badge to Tim Robertson, Keith Bono, Paul Berry, Stephen Branding, Charles Schwab, Scott Sorter, Brian Starling and Steven Stegelmeyer; Bear badge to Jay Smith and Steven Crow; and an assistant den leader pin to Mrs. Helen Robertson.

Derwood Bono accepted the position of pack treasurer, replacing Max Forbes who has resigned.

Den Two won the "cubby" award for the evening and Den 4 served refreshments.

Heintz announced the blue and gold banquet will be held Feb. 29 at the school. Refreshments were served by Webelos Den 2.

To close the meeting, Den 1 cuts formed a circle displaying their shields around the cubmaster as he read "Circle of Steel."

Fight leads to 3 charges

Larry J. Morrisett, 23, of 2322 Benton St., was charged with resisting arrest, aggravated battery and disorderly conduct this week after being arrested by officers at his home.

Police said Morrisett was fighting with his father when they arrived at the house and refused to relinquish his father around the older man's neck. When separated from the father, Morrisett allegedly struck an officer in the chest before being handcuffed and brought to the station.

Kiwanis clubs to sponsor Explorer 'Impact' breakfast

The Evening and Breakfast Kiwanis clubs of Granite City will sponsor an "Impact" breakfast to explain the "Career Exploring" program of the Boy Scouts of America to local business and professional leaders.

Exploring is a program designed for high school and college age young men and women between 14 and 21 years of age.

"The majority of explorer units are career oriented," Allen Jesse, chairman of the evening club's Youth Committee, said at the groups Tuesday evening meeting in Charles Restaurant.

"Career Exploring is a relatively new term in our country and youth needs to know about the free enterprise system, about the honesty of business, and about career educational requirements and opportunities."

"Exploring is attractive to business as a program with real public relations value. All business needs people with integrity and people who have a genuine interest in a particular occupation or profession," Jesse said.

The event is planned Wednesday morning, Feb. 18, beginning at 7:30 a.m. with breakfast.

Edward Long, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis District 34, was a guest at the Tuesday meeting and complimented the Evening and Breakfast Kiwanis clubs for undertaking this project in cooperation with the Explorer Division of the Chokio Mound Council.

LT. Gov. Long also complimented the evening club on its work with the schools in helping needy children get eye glasses. The club spends an average of $100 per week helping children referred to them by the schools.

The guest also emphasized the Kiwanis youth conference to be held Tuesday, Feb. 16, in Edwardsville.

President Tondas reminded the members that next Tuesday evening will be ladies' night and said he hopes members will make a special effort attend and bring their wives.

Students to consider petitions on tuition

The aid of student organizations at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in fighting a tuition hike is needed now, according to student body president Bob Roberts. As part of the fight, he is urging members of fraternities, sororities, clubs and other groups to attend a meeting at 7 tonight in the International Room of the University Center.

"We have done the testifying, done all the talking and now we need to go into action," Roberts said.

A tuition increase could be instituted as early as this fall if the General Assembly and governor go along with recommendations of the Illinois Board of Higher Education (BHE). Students and administrators from SIUE voiced opposition to the increase proposal at public hearings this month, but Roberts doesn't feel the BHE will change its stance favoring the increase.

"The increase will affect the student, his parents, and his future. But, most of all, it will be on the students' heads if it goes through. If we don't fight this thing, then no one is going to fight it for us," Roberts said.

He urged a petition drive, with as many names as possible on petitions to be presented to lawmakers before the March primary.

Burglars flee

Il Sung Kim, who operates a karate school at 2100 Delmar Avenue and lives in an apartment behind the school, said he heard a noise at the front of the building at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday and when he went to investigate, he saw two men at the front door, attempting to break in.

He said the men had broken a window in the front door and one was reaching through trying to unlock the door. When the men saw Kim, they ran to a car parked on Delmar Avenue and drove from the scene.

Kim said the men appeared to be about 25 to 35 years of age.

Thompson to speak at 8 Lincoln gatherings

James R. Thompson, a Republican candidate for governor, will be the main speaker at eight Lincoln Day events throughout Illinois, it was announced yesterday.

Speaking at the opening of the Springfield headquarters of Citizens for Jim Thompson for Governor, 325 S. 5th St., the 39-year-old former U. S. attorney said he will begin the Lincoln Day speeches Feb. 9 in Belleville.

Nearly 1,000 persons are expected to attend the St. Clair County Lincoln Day dinner in Fischer's Restaurant, 2100 Main St., Belleville.

On Feb. 10, Thompson will address a Lincoln Day luncheon hosted by the Republican Women's Club of Quincy.

He will be the featured speaker Feb. 11 at a combined Lee and Whiteside Counties Lincoln Day dinner in Sterling, and on Feb. 12 he will address the annual Sangamon County Lincoln Day luncheon at the Holiday Inn East, Springfield. That night, Thompson will

'People priorities' stressed by Howlett

A function of Illinois government is to establish priorities for collective goals and actions of the people, Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett said today in Peoria.

A candidate for governor in the March 16 Democratic primary, he addressed a luncheon of Independent Citizens for Howlett.

As governor, he said, his own priorities would be "people priorities"—especially education, health, welfare, and public safety.

"Education is the first priority of government, at both state and local levels," said Howlett.

"The 1970 Constitution clearly fixes on the state the primary responsibility for financing the system of public education."

"When I am governor, we will meet that responsibility. We will meet fully the obligation of our state government to our children."

"But we must provide for the poor, who cannot support themselves."

bodied on the public aid rolls so they can make their own contribution to society and break the relief cycle."

"We must provide the best in mental health care so patients will not be merely kept in custody but will be cured and restored to society."

"We must see that public safety is maintained by law, order and justice."

"The special needs of our senior citizens must be a high priority as the number of aged in our population keeps increasing."

"To meet human needs, we must manage our government efficiently and economically."

"We cannot afford to waste a dollar in inefficient administration if we are to give the people the services they deserve and are paying for," Howlett asserted.

"In government, as in business and in the home, we must live within our means."

"As a candidate for nomination as governor, I'm running on a record. My record, after 15 years in state office, has earned me recognition for responsibility in budgeting and caution in spending."

"My opponent's record, after three years in office, has identified him with irresponsible budgeting and the highest spending in Illinois history."

"According to George W. Lindberg, state comptroller, the state has spent $303 million more than it took in since July 1, 1975, in general fund money."

"As governor, I will not tolerate irresponsible budgeting."

"I am a professional administrator. I have worked with budgets all my life. I know how to budget and how to live within a budget."

As auditor of public accounts and as secretary of state, Howlett said, he has budgeted only for what was needed, has spent less than was appropriated and has returned money to the state treasury to be used for other purposes.

"I seek the office of governor because we want to extend economy and efficiency to a broader area of government,"

Howlett said.

"But this is not an end in itself."

"The objective is not only to save the taxpayers' money but to make it available for the human needs of our people."

Howlett said.

Woman suffers stab wound

Mrs. Nora Chancellor, 34, of 2327 Nameoki Drive, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital after being stabbed in the palm of her right hand by a girl in her home at 11:40 a.m. Tuesday.

Police arrested a 16-year-old girl a short time after learning of the stabbing and they located a small paring knife in Mrs. Chancellor's home which was believed used to stab her.

The 16-year-old girl was taken to Granite City juvenile authorities and neighbors were asked to take care of her two-month-old baby until the issue can be resolved.

Mrs. Chancellor was scheduled for surgery on her hand this week.

In Memoriam 33

In loving memory of ROBERT READING, January 28, 1974. I have lost my life's companion. A life linked with my own. Every day I miss him more. As I walk through life alone. No one knows the silent heartaches. Only those who have lost can tell.

Oh the grief I bear in silence. For the one I loved so well. I never knew that hearts could ache.

With such a bitter pain, Longing for his vanishing face. To hear his voice again. I never knew that nights could be so lonely and dim.

But I have learned so many things. Because of losing him. If all the world were mine to give.

I would give it all and more. To see his face I loved so dear. Come smiling through my door.

A special display card, 10 feet long and one foot wide, filled with silver coins for the March of Dimes, was stolen in a burglary at the Wayside Tavern, 2100 Washington Ave., last week.

The intruder removed a sheet of plexiglass from a window in front of the building and crawled into the tavern, overturning a table and breaking an ashtray while entering.

The plexiglass panel was taken along with the coin-filled display card, which was stapled behind the bar. Several silver coins were found on the sidewalk outside the tavern.

Seek solutions to alley littering

Granite City residents were cautioned this week to keep their metal garbage cans, or maintain lid-covered garbage cans for disposal of garbage or face the possibility of penalties under the city's refuse collection ordinance.

City officials report that alleys are littered with garbage and refuse in some parts of the city, primarily because residents neglect to properly wrap and place garbage in metal garbage cans, or properly prepare refuse and trash for pickups by collectors.

City council members describing the matter as a "major problem" have discussed means of keeping alleys cleaner through a program of enforcement of the city garbage collection ordinance.

Ernest Eli, city inspector, last week issued copies of the city ordinance provisions in a statement urging residents to comply with those terms. Officials admit that a big part of the problem results from stray dogs tearing open plastic bags in which trash has been placed for pickups. Officials note that under the ordinance, no garbage is to be placed in plastic bags.

In his statement, Eli said: "Regarding the disposal of garbage and refuse in the city of Granite City, Ordinance Number 2730 and Article 20.301 of the Municipal Code of the City of Granite City specify certain duties of every owner or his agent or occupant of any house, building, flat or apartment."

"Ordinance 2730 states that it shall be unlawful to place or permit to remain in the city any garbage, or other material subject to decay other than leaves or grass, excepting in a tightly covered metal or plastic container not to exceed a 30-gallon capacity."

"Garbage is defined as wastes resulting from the handling, preparation, cooking and consumption of food; wastes from the handling, storage and sale of produce."

"Article III, Section 20.301 (Receptacles Required) states that it shall be the duty of every owner or his agent or occupant of any house, building, flat or apartment, or tenement in city where people reside, board or lodge, or where animal or vegetable matter is prepared or served, or where refuse, tin cans, or other rubbish is deposited by aforesaid householders, residents or merchants doing business in the city of Granite City, to deposit said garbage, tin cans, refuse, rubbish and ashes in a receptacle."

"It shall be the duty of every such person to wrap or place all garbage in a paper container and same shall be deposited in the same receptacle as tin cans, refuse and rubbish."

Section 20.302 (Specifications) stipulates that the receptacle for garbage and other refuse and rubbish shall be made of metal or plastic with close fitting covers; and such cans shall have a capacity of not more than 30 gallons, and shall be provided with suitable handles.

Section 20.303 (Location of Containers) - Said cans, containers or receptacles shall be placed at the alley line of the premises where a public alley abuts said premises, or at the front curb line of said premises where no alley abuts said premises."

Madison County Federal moving to new home office

Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association will open for business in its new, two-story home office building at 3600 Nameoki Road on Monday, Feb. 2. A. H. Froemling, president, announced today.

A grand opening celebration will be held in the spring. For the past 16 years, Madison County Federal has been headquartered at 3214 Nameoki Road in the Belmore Village Shopping Center. With assets of $25.4 million, it is the largest savings and loan firm in Granite City. The newly 16,000-square-foot building is across from the Nameoki Village Shopping Center. It is a traditionally styled structure, designed by Marion Wilson and built by S. M. Wilson and Company.

With eight teller stations, drive-up facilities and a separate new accounts department, the newly furnished structure will accommodate the association's planned continued growth for many years, Froemling said. A unique feature of the new location will be a dawn-to-dusk American flag and pole installation. At dawn, the flag will automatically come out of its housing within the pole and go up. At dusk, the reverse will take place. It will be the first such flagpole in this area.

Madison County Federal offers a full range of passbook and certificate savings plans, paying interest up to 7 1/2 percent, with the specific return depending on plan and term. Accounts are insured to $40,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Founded in Madison in 1923, the association was federally chartered in 1957.

In 1960, when it moved into the Belmore Village home office, total assets were $3.5 million. Froemling joined Madison County Federal in 1959 as executive vice-president and was elected president in 1966. Directors are Arthur F. Buente, Robert B. Dunlap, Kenneth J. Hillmer, D.D.S., Ernest L. Hopkins, John L. Palchiff, William C. Rainford, John W. Reese, Gilbert Rosch and A. H. Froemling.

The association has a second location at Illinois Route 159 and the Cottonwood Station Road in Glen Carbon. This office opened in mid-1975.

Man foils theft from car

A man witnessing a crime nearly succeeded in detaining a young thief outside Tri-City Park Tabernacle, Clark Avenue and Maryville Road, this week, but the youth escaped.

Randy Hildreth of the 2400 block of Terminal Avenue said he was in the church parking lot when he witnessed two young men, about 17 years of age, stealing a citizens' band radio from a parked car.

Hildreth said he ran to the car and grabbed the youth who was holding the radio, wrestling him to the ground and forcing him to drop the radio.

The youth managed to break free and the two thieves ran across a field toward Nassau Drive, he said.

Alan Johnson, 3096 Wayne Ave., the owner of the car, found the radio near the car. One of the youths who fled was about five feet, six inches tall, weighed about 150 pounds, was of medium build and had light hair. He wore a blue parka jacket.

The other was about six feet tall, weighed about 160 pounds, was thin and had long dark brown hair. He wore dark clothing.

Police searched the area, but were unable to locate youths matching the descriptions.

1ST THESS. 5:22 . . . "obtain from all appearance of evil."

It is an amazing thing how our sense of values change. We are living today in the most loose moral conditions that have ever existed in the world. You may trace the rise and decline of many cultures and gross immorality lies at the base of every one that fell.

America is no different. Unless there is a great change in attitudes she will fall. The bicentennial year with our birthday celebrations and quotes from our forefathers have a very hollow ring in our ears.

We are in need of "Doors of the Word, not hears." Christ declared, "I am the way, the truth, and the life and no man cometh to the Father but by me."

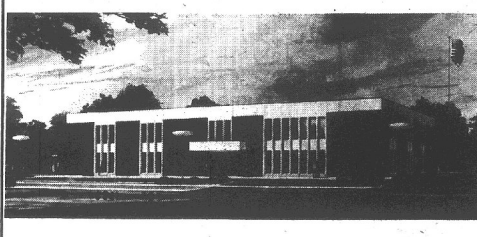

A simple but effective start toward our Nation's salvation is to "AD- STAIN FROM ALL APPEARANCE OF EVIL."

Students in GC cooperative program find links to lifetime careers

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer
The young man or young woman fixing your hamburger at McDonald's Restaurant, tallying your purchases at K-Mart, updating your account at a department store or standing by your side in the operating theater at St. Elizabeth Hospital may frequently have a common bond.

In all four of the circumstances noted, and in many other instances, the young person helping you may be part of the Off-Campus program of Granite City School District 9.

Experiences gained in the Off-Campus program, a Cooperative Education venture, have far reaching effects, and participation is rapidly becoming more and more attractive to the high school student who does not wish to enter the workforce immediately after graduation, or those needing money to stay in school.

Still other participants are learning a variety of job skills in preparation for entering a specific field, while a few students find the stability and responsibility which goes with a job also helps them finish their formal education.

Of special interest to Don Shaffner, director of the Occupational Education Cooperative Education-Extended Classroom program in Granite City, and his colleagues, are results of the program to date and the irrefutable statistics which underscore its success so far.

Among the 150 seniors who graduated from the program last June, 52 per cent found employment in the same type of occupation for which they trained while in high school.

Twenty-six of the 150 went on to college and seven continued in programs to receive additional training.

Five students were married soon after graduation, four moved from the district and two enlisted in the Armed Forces.

Most startling among the figures is the one showing that only 3 per cent of the 150 were unemployed after graduation.

At the present time, 300 students are enrolled in the Off-Campus program, Shaffner said. Hopefully, between 225 and 230 young people will have the chance to enter the program next semester, he added.

Shaffner and his staff talk with the high school students in their sophomore year, explaining in detail the program, its objectives and benefits.

Statistics show 40 per cent of the local high school population go on to college and from that 40 per cent at least 60 per cent never finish, Shaffner said.

The Off-Campus and Extended Classroom program, therefore, provides another alternative to a student in the remaining 60 per cent, who doesn't want to go to college in the first place, he noted.

Occasionally, a student is brought to the staff's attention because he or she is about to drop out of high school for various reasons — the need to earn money or an overall disinterest in school work.

Those enrolled in the Off-Campus program are junior and senior students and the basic requirement is that they stay in school while working.

At first glance, some effects of the program are less obvious than those immediately indicated by the creditable statistics, but they are equally as meaningful to the student and the employer involved, Shaffner said.

Frequently, a good relationship builds up between the program participant and his employer-supervisor, creating a common bond and far-reaching residual benefits.

The director cited the case of one youth who wanted to work at a local restaurant.

The student's hair, worn in the shoulder-length style of today's youth, was a constant source of irritation to his parents who received no cooperation from the boy.

Added to his unkempt appearance was a lack of interest in attending school.

A few words from the restaurant manager regarding company rules on appearance, plus a desire on the youth's part to get the job, resulted in keeping the boy in school and steady employment.

"He is a good worker," the manager said. "But I know he would never have stayed in school if he hadn't got the job. It makes you feel good to know you can help a kid finish his education and work at the same time."

George J. Knecht, director of the AFL-CIO Community Services, to prevent any misunderstanding of the student-workers' role in the program.

Among the most successful areas in the Occupational Education program are the operating room technician and related health field services training at St. Elizabeth Hospital, and the cosmetology course provided through the Granite City School of Beauty Culture and Joseph's School of Hair Fashion.

A young man with a hearing impairment is taking the cosmetology course and proving adept at the trade and very popular with his instructors and fellow students, most of whom are girls, Shaffner said.

Another youth working as chef's apprentice at the Collinsville Holiday Inn has been offered a chance to continue a career in management by training at the Holiday Inn management school in Memphis, Tenn.

A new aspect of the program only now being realized is the inclusion of 13 Educable Mentally Handicapped youngsters employed this semester through the program, Shaffner said.

To augment the professional personnel working with the students, an Off-Campus Advisory Committee recently was established, consisting of employers, former student participants and others interested in the Extended Classroom program.

Richard Ervay of Ervay's Restaurant, 2220 Pontoon Road, serves as chairman. The committee meets quarterly.

Evaluation of the overall program, both from the student and employer aspect, is among the committee's tasks.

Requirements of business and industrial firms in selecting an employee, and whether schools are educating youngsters to meet future employment needs also will be explored by the committee, the director noted.

Former students in the program now serving on the committee are Miss Gail Veizer, who was enrolled in the hospital's operating room

Other committee members are Mrs. Lillian Douglas, Coordinating Youth Services; Dr. Obert Lay, surgeon; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, Baskin-Robbins; Grover Meyer, Stix Baer and Fuller; Mrs. Shirley Brown; Granite City School District; C. A. McMillan, Coordinated Youth Services; Walt Stauffer, International House of Pancakes; Ed Sullivan, McDonald's Restaurant; Mrs. Shirley Wendel, St. Elizabeth Hospital; Mrs. Marilyn Whitworth, Lindsay Construction Co.; Don Wolf, Robert L. Wolf and Associates; Walter C. Milton, Pepsi-Cola Alton Bottling, Inc.; George J. Knecht, AFL-CIO Community Services; and Valerie Evenden, Granite City Press-Record.

Master Plan Phase IV as proposed by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (BHE) has little chance for success unless the state of Illinois takes steps to implement appropriations consistent with the recommendations of the plan, in the opinion of Warren Joseph, assistant vice-president for personnel administration at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

In a statement addressed to the BHE, Joseph said the proposed master plan is contradictory in respect to statements about the dual system of public and private higher education which exists in the state.

"On the one hand, the BHE statement indicates the importance of providing support for private higher education in order to continue the availability of alternatives for those who seek higher education," Joseph said.

"Then, in the planning and management section of the document, the statement appears which seems to be contradictory when it says, 'From a state perspective, it may be necessary to consider policies which encourage enrollments at those (public) campuses which are currently underutilized.'"

Joseph said the affirmative action recommendations of the master plan cannot be realized unless the BHE recognizes the costs involved. The master plan states, "Colleges and universities should increase efforts to recruit and retain more minorities and women in fields of study where they are underrepresented. Special attention should also be given to increasing the enrollment of under-represented minorities in educational opportunity programs."

Joseph commended the drafters of the master plan for "their enlightened view, but they should also clearly recognize that implementation of such a recommendation carries certain inherent costs which must be addressed."

Joseph urged "all the support that can be given" to the BHE alternative to a student in the remaining 60 per cent, who doesn't want to go to college in the first place, he noted.

Joseph urged "all the support that can be given" to the BHE alternative to a student in the remaining 60 per cent, who doesn't want to go to college in the first place, he noted.

Occasionally, a student is brought to the staff's attention because he or she is about to drop out of high school for various reasons — the need to earn money or an overall disinterest in school work.

Those enrolled in the Off-Campus program are junior and senior students and the basic requirement is that they stay in school while working.

At first glance, some effects of the program are less obvious than those immediately indicated by the creditable statistics, but they are equally as meaningful to the student and the employer involved, Shaffner said.

Frequently, a good relationship builds up between the program participant and his employer-supervisor, creating a common bond and far-reaching residual benefits.

The director cited the case of one youth who wanted to work at a local restaurant.

The student's hair, worn in the shoulder-length style of today's youth, was a constant source of irritation to his parents who received no cooperation from the boy.

Added to his unkempt appearance was a lack of interest in attending school.

A few words from the restaurant manager regarding company rules on appearance, plus a desire on the youth's part to get the job, resulted in keeping the boy in school and steady employment.

"He is a good worker," the manager said. "But I know he would never have stayed in school if he hadn't got the job. It makes you feel good to know you can help a kid finish his education and work at the same time."

George J. Knecht, director of the AFL-CIO Community Services, to prevent any misunderstanding of the student-workers' role in the program.

Among the most successful areas in the Occupational Education program are the operating room technician and related health field services training at St. Elizabeth Hospital, and the cosmetology course provided through the Granite City School of Beauty Culture and Joseph's School of Hair Fashion.

A young man with a hearing impairment is taking the cosmetology course and proving adept at the trade and very popular with his instructors and fellow students, most of whom are girls, Shaffner said.

Another youth working as chef's apprentice at the Collinsville Holiday Inn has been offered a chance to continue a career in management by training at the Holiday Inn management school in Memphis, Tenn.

A new aspect of the program only now being realized is the inclusion of 13 Educable Mentally Handicapped youngsters employed this semester through the program, Shaffner said.

To augment the professional personnel working with the students, an Off-Campus Advisory Committee recently was established, consisting of employers, former student participants and others interested in the Extended Classroom program.

Richard Ervay of Ervay's Restaurant, 2220 Pontoon Road, serves as chairman. The committee meets quarterly.

Evaluation of the overall program, both from the student and employer aspect, is among the committee's tasks.

Requirements of business and industrial firms in selecting an employee, and whether schools are educating youngsters to meet future employment needs also will be explored by the committee, the director noted.

Former students in the program now serving on the committee are Miss Gail Veizer, who was enrolled in the hospital's operating room

Other committee members are Mrs. Lillian Douglas, Coordinating Youth Services; Dr. Obert Lay, surgeon; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, Baskin-Robbins; Grover Meyer, Stix Baer and Fuller; Mrs. Shirley Brown; Granite City School District; C. A. McMillan, Coordinated Youth Services; Walt Stauffer, International House of Pancakes; Ed Sullivan, McDonald's Restaurant; Mrs. Shirley Wendel, St. Elizabeth Hospital; Mrs. Marilyn Whitworth, Lindsay Construction Co.; Don Wolf, Robert L. Wolf and Associates; Walter C. Milton, Pepsi-Cola Alton Bottling, Inc.; George J. Knecht, AFL-CIO Community Services; and Valerie Evenden, Granite City Press-Record.

Master Plan Phase IV as proposed by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (BHE) has little chance for success unless the state of Illinois takes steps to implement appropriations consistent with the recommendations of the plan, in the opinion of Warren Joseph, assistant vice-president for personnel administration at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

In a statement addressed to the BHE, Joseph said the proposed master plan is contradictory in respect to statements about the dual system of public and private higher education which exists in the state.

"On the one hand, the BHE statement indicates the importance of providing support for private higher education in order to continue the availability of alternatives for those who seek higher education," Joseph said.

"Then, in the planning and management section of the document, the statement appears which seems to be contradictory when it says, 'From a state perspective, it may be necessary to consider policies which encourage enrollments at those (public) campuses which are currently underutilized.'"

Joseph said the affirmative action recommendations of the master plan cannot be realized unless the BHE recognizes the costs involved. The master plan states, "Colleges and universities should increase efforts to recruit and retain more minorities and women in fields of study where they are underrepresented. Special attention should also be given to increasing the enrollment of under-represented minorities in educational opportunity programs."

Joseph commended the drafters of the master plan for "their enlightened view, but they should also clearly recognize that implementation of such a recommendation carries certain inherent costs which must be addressed."

Joseph urged "all the support that can be given" to the BHE alternative to a student in the remaining 60 per cent, who doesn't want to go to college in the first place, he noted.

Heberer named to SIU board

Gov. Daniel Walker on Monday announced the appointment of Wayne Heberer of Belleville Route One as a member of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees. Heberer, 36, is a farmer in St. Clair County and farms 1,500 acres of land on which he raises 5,000 hogs a year. He is a 1960 graduate of the College of Agriculture at the University of Illinois. Heberer is a past president of the Illinois Pork Producers Association and is a member of the St. Clair County Extension Council.

He replaces William Allen of Normal on the board. Allen asked that he not be reappointed. Heberer's term expires in January 1981. The position is unsalaried and is subject to Illinois Senate confirmation. Heberer may attend the Feb. 12 meeting at Carbondale and will have the right to vote, according to the governor's office. Both Allen and Heberer are Republicans. Heberer's wife is president of the Illinois Porkette Association.

Their farm is operated in partnership with his brother, Verlan. Both Mr. and Mrs. Heberer are 4-H Club leaders. They are the parents of two children, Kathy and Kent. President John S. Rendleman of SIU at Edwardsville said he is anxious to meet with Heberer and discuss the institution. "Certainly, a man of agricultural background will bring needed expertise to a university whose area of service includes a good many farmers," the president said.

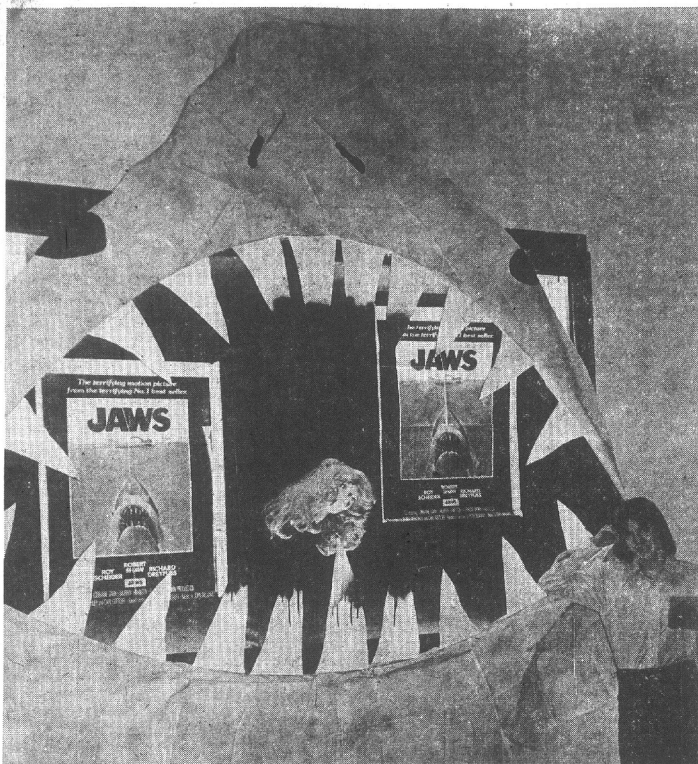

"Gov. Walker has made uniformly fine appointments to the board in the past," Dr. Rendleman continued. "I am sure the present board will be happy to see that this vacancy of long-standing has been filled. We stand ready to inform Mr. Heberer on any and all matters of interest and concern to him. Our administration has always cooperated fully with the Board of Trustees."

Job growth seen as a key regional need

The St. Louis region has a real potential, as yet unrealized, for solving problems through three regional organizations, Lawrence K. Roos said last week.

Immediate past chairman of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, he was moderator of a panel at the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association's annual meeting, held at Stouffer's Riverfront Towers.

Workshop for area dentists

Modern Concepts in Pain Control, a continuing education workshop for dentists, will be taught Saturday and Sunday at the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Dental Medicine.

The workshop will discuss use of nitrous oxide anesthesia. This analgesic allows patients to remain awake during dental procedures so the dentist can monitor vital signs without the patient being in pain.

Topics will include: pain mechanisms, pain perception vs. pain reaction, the role of nitrous oxide in the production of conscious sedation, patient selection and preparation of inhalation, and a clinical demonstration.

Dr. C. Richard Bennett, a graduate of Ohio State University, will instruct the course. Currently, he is professor and chairman of the department of anesthesiology of the University of Pittsburgh School of Dental Medicine. He is also assistant professor of anesthesiology of the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine and is a staff anesthesiologist and chief of dental services at Presbyterian University Hospital in Pittsburgh.

Panelists were Arthur G. Baebler, general manager of the RCGA; Robert J. Baer, executive director of the Bi-State Development Agency; and Alan C. Richter, executive director of the Gateway Council.

"I'd like to suggest that each of you has the power to make regional machinery work or not work," Roos told an audience of 250 RCGA members and guests.

"Your public agencies and officials are not oblivious to your wishes."

At a luncheon meeting after the panel, RCGA President Clarence C. Barksdale, president and chief executive officer, First National Bank in St. Louis, told a gathering of about 650 that the association hopes to see 1,000 new jobs created in the region in 1976 through the location of new business and industry.

Another RCGA goal for the year is 2,200 new jobs created by expansion of firms already in the St. Louis region, Barksdale said.

He called for better exploitation of the area's advantages of location, transportation facilities and proximity to raw materials in improving the manufacturing sector of the region's economy.

During a panel discussion, the speakers emphasized a cooperation among regional agencies, local-level governments and the business community in working for an improved economy.

"We may differ, and there may be controversy," Roos said. "But once a decision is reached, we must all work together to meet regional needs."

All sectors of the community have a vital part in such efforts, Richter said, and "if one is missing, we're not going to get anywhere."

The panel agreed that railroad modernization is vital to the region but, when asked about a $400,000 three-year study of the problem, Richter replied, "I think we blew it." He explained that railroads and the private sector were not sufficiently involved in the survey, adding that "we need to move the Federal Railroad Administration and the 19 area railroads off dead center," to solve the problem of inefficient switching operation.

Baer said Bi-State planned to play "an active and aggressive role in port development."

"The three regional agencies and local port authorities are working on finding out where we are, what our priorities are, and what our timetable should be in coordinating port development."

A lack of usable industrial sites is one of the real problems confronting the Missouri portion of the St. Louis region, Baebler declared. He cited a recent study for the RCGA concluding that St. Louis County has only enough such sites to satisfy industrial needs for about five more years, and the City of St. Louis already has developed most of its industrial land.

'Pop-Pretzel Concert' at North

The third annual "Pop and Pretzel Concert" of Granite City High School North Band will be presented at 8 p.m. Monday in the cafeteria at North High School. The public is invited to attend.

The popular "Pop and Pretzel" presentation will feature the 88-member North High Concert Band under the direction of Robert D. Todoroff.

Monday's performance will be the second in a series of four concerts slated during the 1975-76 concert season.

Music for the concert contains a wide variety of offerings, all reflecting scores on the lighter side, the band director said.

Included on the hour long program will be "A Broadway Show Stoppers" overture; selections from "Hawaii"; "An Original Dixieland Concerto," featuring a six-piece Dixieland Band with members Wendy Brandibas, clarinet, Richard Burch, trumpet, James Briedenbach, tenor sax, Ron Williams, trombone, Ruth Fisher, bass, and Glenn Schubert, drums.

"Trumpercussion," a trumpet quartet, including Richard Bunch, Robert Springer, David Gaudette and Dwayne Jorgensen, with band accompaniment; "The Four Horsemen," a rudimental percussion ensemble with members Glenn Schubert, Frank Orris, Don Walton, Pam Tester, Sandra Miller, Karol Gargac, Greg Childress and Kim Hebblethwaite; a suite from the sound track of the recent movie hit "Jaws"; and a swing version of "Chopsticks."

Members of the Steel City Belles Pom Squad will serve soda and pretzels during the concert repeating their participation of the past two years.

The Granite High North Band Parents Association, under the leadership of President Harold Stoker, are in charge of the preparation for the concert.

Admission to the concert is by season ticket or a $1 fee for adults. 50 cents for students and 10 cents for band students at the door.

Tickets for soda at 15 cents per cup also may be purchased at the door. The soda will be served by members of the Pom Squad at the tables. Pretzels are furnished free of charge by the Band Parents Association. The "Pop and Pretzel" concert has drawn capacity crowds the past two years, Todoroff noted.

Paul O'Masters mark anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Master, 1023 E. Wesleyan Dr., Tempe, Ariz., formerly of Granite City, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary while on a tour of the Hawaiian Islands.

The 10-day holiday included visits to all four islands and was arranged by the couple's church, Grace Community, for 22 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Master resided here for 63 years before moving to Arizona. They received a bottle of champagne from the air lines in honor of their anniversary.

According to Mrs. O'Master, the most interesting aspect of the trip was visits to a live volcano, which erupted last November, and attending three luaus. They also called at the National Cemetery, near Pearl Harbor.

ST. PETER EVANGELICAL UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST, 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard, where the congregation will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the church in activities throughout the year, concluding on anniversary Sunday, Dec. 5. The Rev. Robert Kettelhut is pastor.

St. Peter's marks 75 years

The 75th anniversary year at St. Peter Evangelical United Church of Christ was officially last week at the annual meeting of the congregation with Calvin Bartels, president of the church, presiding. Ralph Monken, representing the Special Events Committee, presented a schedule of events and suggestions for celebration throughout the year, concluding on anniversary Sunday, Dec. 5. Included in the plans are invitations to the three living "sons of the congregation," Rev. Walter Kleffmann, Rev. Orville Brummer, and Rev. John Miltitz to preach on a Sunday during the year and to the former pastor, Rev. Robert Baumann. Also planned is an opportunity to honor the church's Pastor Emeritus, Rev. H. H. Wintermeyer.

Monken also announced that the church is planning a pictorial directory for all members and plans to enter a float in the Granite City Bi-Centennial parade.

During the summer months of 1901, Paul Viehe, a student at Eden Seminary in St. Louis, made a survey of the downtown area and on Sunday, Dec. 1, 1901, the Rev. Henry Buchmüller, chairman of the Home Mission Board of the South Illinois District of the Evangelical Church of North America, held the first worship service. The constitution was adopted and the first Church Council elected.

The following Sunday, Rev. Otto H. Waldmann was called to be the first pastor. In February 1903, the building site at 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard was selected and ground breaking for the first building came one month later. The building, which is part of the present church facilities was dedicated on Nov. 8, 1903. In 1926 an addition was made to that building and in 1957 a new educational building was dedicated, thus completing the present church facilities.

Since its founding, five men of the church have become ministers. Rev. Arnold E. Klick and Rev. John E. Kleffmann are deceased. The church has had eight ministers serve the congregation during its history.

The Rev. Robert Kettelhut is the current pastor, coming to the church in August 1970. He and his wife, Helene, and their three sons, Marty, David and Jonathan, occupy the parsonage immediately adjacent to the church building.

Church school classes are held each Sunday at 9 a.m. for 3-year-olds to adults. Currently, two adult classes are being offered. The Service of Worship is held at 10:15 a.m. Child Care is provided both at 9 and 10:15.

A Senior High Youth Fellowship meets each Sunday at 6:30 p.m. under the direction of the Student Associate, Carl Pelzer, a student at Eden Seminary.

St. Peter Church has a complete music program for children, youth and adults under the direction of Robert Hultschon, organist-choirmaster. The Chancel Choir sings regularly for the Sunday worship consisting of senior highs and adults.

The Handbell Choir, also for senior high youth and adults plays for Sunday worship and special services. There is a Junior Choir for third to sixth graders and a Junior High Handbell Choir for seventh and eighth graders. Miss Susan Kelly directs the Cherub Choir for kindergarten through second graders.

In 1967 the church dedicated its present organ, the largest pipe organ in Madison County.

Hairdressers view new styles

The Elite Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, Affiliate 38, met at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant last week to view new hair cutting and permanent wave techniques.

President Mrs. Brenda Cant presided and introduced Miss Jolene Prewett, owner of Continental Coiffures Salon, who presented the educational program.

Miss Prewett spoke on new cutting techniques and also on beard and mustache trimming.

STEAL RADIO

A 25-channel citizen's band radio, valued at $150, was removed from the auto of Priscilla Lane, 202 Briarwood Lane, she reported at 6:10 p.m. Friday.

SMOKE PROBLEM

built by Walmer Brummer, a life-long member of the church, in memory of his parents.

Members of St. Peter Church come from throughout the Quad-Cities area. The congregation is committed to a ministry at its present location in the downtown area.

A part of this year's anniversary events will be the study of further ways to serve the community as well as the worldwide mission of the church. As an expression of this dual concern the congregation voted at the annual meeting to divide its Lenten offering equally between Mobile Meals of the Quad-Cities and the global food-hunger program of the Illinois South Conference of the Evangelical Church of Christ to send a carload of seed grain to a needy area of the world.

The next anniversary event of the church will be a potluck supper Feb. 29, followed by a songfest. Residents of the community desiring a descriptive folder of the church's program are invited to write or call the church. Residents of the community without a church home are invited to attend the Sunday morning worship and Church School classes.
